KILLED, 6 HURT IN WOOD RIVER EXPLOSION

Tar Still Blows Up at Standard Oil Co., Refinery—
4 Survivors in Serious Condition.

INJURED ARE TAKEN TO ALTON HOSPITAL

Fire Follows the Accident
—Reports on Just How It Occurred Are Conflicting.

Two men were killed, five probably fatally burned, and two slightly burned in the explosion of a still at the Standard Oil Co.'s refinery at Wood River, Ill., six miles southeast of Alton, shortly after noon today.

Conflicting reports were received of the accident. One was that a still used in producing kerosene from crude oil had exploded, and another was that it was a still used in making tar. It was stated that leakage from the still became ignited, causing the explosion.

The injured men were treated at the refinery's emergency hospital
at the plant, after which those seriously burned were taken to an Alton hospital.

MEXICAN ARCHBISHOP WILL

MISS WILLS SAYS SHE'LL PLAY
Will Compete in Doubles at Wimbledon, But Not Singles.

PARIS, June 14.—Helen Wills, American girl tennis champion, has made such rapid recovery from the operation performed on her for appendicitis, that, though she does not feel equal to play in the singles at Wimbledon, she hopes to play in the mixed doubles.

Miss Wills has allowed her entry to stand for both the doubles
and singles, but her mother said
today that her strength would be sufficient only for the doubles.

Mrs. Wills and her daughter will leave Paris next Saturday for London.

GROWD ATTACKS RAIDERS

Pets Constable Who Destroyed
Alleged Liquor at Picnic.

After Constable William Knight
had destroyed six cases of alleged home-brew and two gallons of alleged whiskey at a refreshment
stand in Point Breeze Park, Lemay
Perry and Telegraph roads, St.
Louis County, last night, the assembled picnickers shouted, "So this is a free country," and pelted
the officers with gravel, rocks and empty bottles.

The officers drew their revolvers
and backed out, making no arrests.

MRS. MARY COPLEY THAW IS 83

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 14.—
Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw celebrated her eighty-third birthday at her home here today. The observance, because of Mrs. Thaw's ill health, took the form of a reunion, with her children, including Harry K.
Thaw, in attendance. Last year while attending church, Mrs.
Thaw fell and suffered injuries
from which she has never entirely recovered.

Illinois Heat Victim Dies.

PANA, Ill., June 14.—Central Illinois first heat death of the season occurred last night when Calvin A. Neff, 47 years old, died of sun stroke suffered last Thursday while at work on railroad east of Pana. He had been unconscious since the stroke. His persons survive.

Says He Killed in Self-Defense.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., June 14.—
Ira Junt, 36 years old, died in a hospital here last night after being shot five times by William Davis of Mulkeytown, Davis surrendered to the sheriff. He said he killed Junt when the latter came to his home and told him, "I have come to get you. Get ready."

BOOTLEGGING OF SILK HOSE MAKES RUMANIANS RICH

Thousands of Pairs Are Smuggled Into Country and Sold to Stores.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, June 14.—Bootleggers in silk stockings are reaping fortunes in Rumania. There is a prohibitive duty on silks, lingerie, perfumes and articles "deluxe" generally. But the Rumanian woman, who is the best dressed in the Balkans, demands these articles at any cost.

The result is that bootleggers,
many of them women, secretly
bring in thousands of pairs of Parisian silk hosiery and sell them to the retail stores or direct to users. Their profits are enormous.
Last year, the Government confiscated $600,000 worth of silk stockings and other expensive articles of feminine wear. Silk stockings of the best quality cost in Rumania $10 a pair. Silk lingerie costs from $25 to $75.

NO RECALL VOTE IN AUGUST

Anti-Miller Chairman Explains It Would Not Be Valid Then.

No effort will be made to submit the question of the recall of Mayor primary, John J. Heil, chairman of the Miller Recall Committee, said today. The primary is not an election within the meaning of the law, he said, and a recall ballot
must be submitted at an election.
The more likely time for submission of the question, if the committee decides to file its petition,
is at the November general election.

There are 90,834 signatures on the petitions, the committee announced today, 563 having been added over the week end.

FRANC TO NEW LOW LEVEL

French Quotation 35.57 to Dollar, 173.25 to Pound Sterling.

PARIS, June 14.—The French franc today tumbled to a new low record for all time, reaching 35.57
to the dollar, and 173.25 to the pound sterling.

At the close of the Bourse the franc had reacted a little and was quoted at 35.49 to the dollar. Today's slump was attributed to the general unsteady financial and political situation without any definite factor on which financial experts could pin it. The opinion is growing that the franc can never be stabilized until the entire situation, political as well as financial, is thrashed out.

BOMB IN MAIL KILLS NURSE

Woman, 50, Names Disgruntled Savior to Syracuse (N. Y.) Police.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 14.—A bomb in a package delivered to Mrs. Arline Curtis, 50 years old, at the rooming house of Charles Thiele, exploded as she opened the package last night, fatally injuring
her. Before she died Mrs. Curtis is said to have named the person who she believes sent the package.

The person named, friends of the injured woman indicated, is a disgruntled sailor.

Four Inches of Rain in 24 Hours.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., June 14.—
North Missouri has had four inches of rain since noon yesterday. Lightning demolished barns and sheds
on several farms. J. C. McVey of Brookfield had just returned to his front porch with his family yesterday afternoon when a lightning bolt entered the dining room
window, demolished the furniture, dishes and silverware, tore planter off the ceiling and then wrecked the furnace in the basement. Those on the porch were knocked off chairs but not injured.

JOHN RUTHERFORD FAILS TO APPEAR AT BENDER TRIAL

Attorney-General Will Ask for Extradition of His Brother, Allen, Slayer of Bellboy.

WITNESS HAD SAID
HE WOULD TESTIFY

Panel of 20 Completed to Hear Case of Lawyer Accused to Plot to Obstruct Justice.

Attorney-General Gentry said
this afternoon that he had given up the expectation that John Rutherford of Pine Bluff, Ark., would come here, as he promised last week to do, as a witness in the trial of A. Samuel Bender, which opened today, on the charge of conspiracy to pervert and obstruct justice in the murder case of William Allen Scott Rutherford.

Gentry said he would at once notify Gov. Baker that he desires the extradition of Allen Rutherford, to answer to the revived
charge of second-degree murder,
for the killing of a bellboy, and the related charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He will not at this time ask the immediate extradition of John Rutherford, who is under indictment on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

Gentry said he regarded the failure of John Rutherford to appear today as a virtual refusal to come at all. He denied that, as stated by Verne R. C. Lacy, John Rutherford's counsel, he had stipulated that John Rutherford should testify in a way satisfactory to him. He said he had stipulated only that Rutherford should tell the whole truth of his payment of more than $14,500 "to arrange matrimonial affairs" with a woman who he believed would escape prison.

Doesn't Respond to Call.

Rutherford's failure to keep his agreement to come here was shown
when the witnesses were called.
His name was called three times,
with no response.

There was standing room only in Division No. 1 of the Court of Criminal Correction, when the trial
of Bender opened this morning.
Bender, an attorney and ward politician, had the dual role of special prosecutor and defense suit attorney in the Rutherford case.

Bender, who is a candidate for a Republican nomination for circuit judge, took a severance from Circuit Attorney Sidener and the four others indicted with them in the conspiracy case, and demanded immediate trial, on the ground that delay would affect his chances as a candidate.

The conspiracy charge is a mis-deemeanor. Bender's trial on this charge is independent of that on the charge of compounding a felony, on which he was indicted
jointly with the Circuit Attorney, and which was set today for hearing in Judge Landwehr's court
July 6, before an outside judge.

The penalty for this form of conspiracy, in case of conviction, is a jail sentence up to six months, or a fine up to $500, or both.

Both Sides Announce Ready.

General Prosecutor Provisional Judge Grodzki and said, in a rather low tone, that the State was ready for trial.

Attorney A. M. Frumberg, for Bender, complained that he did not hear, and demanded that everything be said "openly and distinctly." Gentry repeated his announcement, and Frumberg said the defense was also ready.

Besides Bender's counsel, Frum-berg and Mark Egginton, Attorneys William Baer and Sigmund Baer, representing Circuit Attorney Sidener and Landwehr, respectively, in the misdemeanor case on the same conspiracy charge, were in court.

Frumberg's Question Barred.

In questioning the men summoned to jury duty, Frumberg
asked them whether they had read
a statement of Gentry, urging petit jurors to do their duty as he said,
he and the grand jury had done theirs. Frumberg charged that this statement on the eve of the trial, was intended to "inflame the passions" of those who might be jurors in the case.

The Court sustained the objection of Gentry to this line of questioning.

Egginton asked the prospective jurors whether they had seen the Attorney-General's picture in the newspapers, and if they had read statements given out by him. Gentry objected to this, saying he was "not a newspaper attorney."

A panel of 20 was completed before the luncheon recess, leaving

30,000 EXPECTED AT GROTTO SESSION HERE TOMORROW

Black Fezzes Crowd Streets
as Delegates Arrive for 37th Annual Convention of Masonic Auxiliary.

BAND CONTEST TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Parade With 190 Uniformed Bodies in Line Scheduled for 2 P. M. Tomorrow—Flag Day Ceremony.

More than 18,000 prophets of the Mystic Order, Velled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm—a Masonic order—were in St. Louis early today for their thirty-seventh annual convention. Special trains and cars during the day were expected to swell the attendance to 30,000
for the formal opening tomorrow.
Down town streets, a flutter with Persian orange and light blue and the national colors, reverberated
with the music of arriving bands.
Delegations, arriving from all sections of the country, marched from Union Station to their various hotels, accompanied in many instances by uniformed drill corps.
Black fezzes dotted the sidewalks
throughout the business session.

The high spots of the convention,
so far as the public is concerned,
are the parade, and the contests
of the bands, and the flag day ceremony on the various bands and drill corps.

Parade at 2 P. M. Tomorrow.

The parade will take place tomorrow at 2 p. m. It is stated that 10,000 marchers, with 190
uniformed bodies and 40 bands,
will be in a line four miles long.
The march will be from Twelfth and Olive streets through the downtown district and west on Locust street and Lindell to Kings-highway.

The band contest will be held Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.
in Scottish Rite Cathedral and that afternoon at 4 o'clock the bands will mass, 1500 pieces, for a public concert in the municipal theater.

In case of rain, the contest will be held in Scottish Rite Cathedral.
There are 17 drill teams entered in that contest which will be Wednesday from 12:15 p. m. to 5 p. m.
on the drill grounds in Forest Park, south of Jefferson Memorial.

Public Ceremony Tonight.

The public will be admitted tonight to a Flag day ceremonial in Scottish Rite Cathedral, Lindell
boulevard, west of Grand boulevard. Three bands—from Hamilton, Ont.; Cleveland, O.; and Birmingham, Ala.—and three chorals
—from Columbus, O.; Topeka, Kan., and Alhambra Grotto, St.
Louis—will assist. Grand Monarch
George A. Treadwell of New Orleans will give the flag oration.

This ceremonial will be followed by a musical program in the cathedral, and a dance in the Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. The public will be admitted to the dancing,
which will be held in the ballroom,
the garden and upon newly paved Magnolia avenue, between Grand boulevard and Spring avenue.

A contest among visiting chorals
clubs will be held tomorrow night
at 7 o'clock in Scottish Rite Cathedral and there will be a mass
chorus.

Route of Parade.

The parade tomorrow will form
on Market street, between Twelfth and Olive streets, and proceed
east on Twelfth boulevard between Market and Olive streets. The head of the procession will move
east on Olive to Broadway, north to Washington, west on Washington, west on Kingshighway to Twelfth, south on Twelfth to Locust, west on Locust and Lindell to Sarah street, south on Sarah to West Pine, west to Kingshighway and south on Kingshighway to Lacrosse avenue.

The reviewing stand will be the old St. Louis Club building on Lindell boulevard, west of Grand.
Prizes will be given for patrols,
bands, drum and bugle corps and appearance and size of the delegations of visiting grottoes.

The convention will last through Thursday. During the convention
there will be boat excursions, a Grotto night at the Municipal Opera—Wednesday night—sightseeing
automobile trips about the city,
Forest Park Highlands open at all times to members of the fed, luncheons and dinners for various groups
of officers and a reception at Hotel Chase for women accompanying the prophets.

The business session of the convention will open tomorrow morning at Alhambra Grotto.

TWO SONS CHARGE FATHER OBTAINED DIVORCE BY FRAUD

Wealthy Haverhill, Mass., Man, 72, Accused of Having Woman Impersonate Wife in Mexican Court.

ALLEGED BIGAMY AND PERJURY IN A SUIT

Doctor's Certificate Filed
to Show Their Mother
Was in Sanitarium in U.
S. at Time of Action.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

MEXICO CITY, June 14.—John F. Howard, 72 years old and wealthy, of Haverhill, Mass., is accused by his sons of having another woman impersonate his wife
so he could obtain a consent divorce degree in Mexico, and marry
again, which he did.

The sons, John and Albert—the second named right guard of the Princeton football team of 1922
which beat Yale and Harvard—
have filed suit through Telefoto Campo, Mexico City's leading criminal lawyer, accusing their father of bigamy, perjury and conspiracy. The elder Howard's attorney has won stay of arrest until both sides present their evidence so he is at liberty.

According to the sons' complaint, their father last January went to Cuernavaca, Mexico City's leading pleasure resort and the latest Mexican divorce Mecca. In the State of Morelos, there married couples may obtain divorces
by "mutual consent."

Details of Divorce Plot.

One day Howard and a woman appeared before the judge of court
of first instance, swore they were married and asked for a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility. The Judge found no flaw in their petition and granted the decree, whereupon the couple returned to Mexico City. Later the sons arrived at the capital, announcing their mother
was in a sanitarium in Haverhill
and was there when the divorce was granted. Meanwhile Howard, senior, had accompanied to the fourth civil court a young woman
whose name was given as Mrs.
Baumbach, described as 40 and as a bleached blond, apparently from the United States, for she speaks
no Spanish.

The marriage was performed
and when the sons arrived they tried in vain to persuade the elder Howard to abandon his new wife and return to their mother. The bridgework remained unmoved.

Evidence Filed in Case.

"Red" Howard once used the football tactics he learned at Princeton and broke in the door of a room in which his father and the second Mrs. Howard had locked themselves. For this the son was arrested but was released almost at once. With the suit against Howard, senior, Campo has filed a statement from the Mayor of Haverhill that the first Mrs.
Howard had not left that city. He also presented a certificate signed by the doctor attending her at the sanitarium that at the time her husband obtained the divorce in Cuernavaca she was under his care
in Haverhill.

Howard's case is now being heard in the fourth Penal Court here.

League Officials Surprised.

Brazil's withdrawal from the League follows her earlier act in resigning from the League Council
because of the refusal Powers to grant her a permanent seat simultaneously with Germany,
which was promised one at the Lo-carno conference.

League officials, basing their opinion on Ambassador Mello Franco's speech in which he said
he would await the final report of
the Council Reorganization Commission, had been confident that the Rio Government would not take the final step until the European chancelleries had the opportunity to try diplomatic negotiations.

The Powers planned to placate Brazil and Spain by promising them support for re-election as nonpermanent Council members,
thus giving them, in effect if not in name, permanent membership.
League officials still hope that the entrance of the new Brazilian President, Washington Luis, this fall may bring a change in the Rio Government's League policy as carried on by President Bernardes and his Foreign Minister, Senhor Pucheco.

Member for Two Years.

Although she has resigned, Brazil remains a member by virtue of the covenant for two years from the time the message was sent. It is dated Saturday, June 12, 11:35
p. m.

Brazil now is in the same position as Costa Rica, which gave notice of resignation in December, 1924 and is entitled to withdraw legally next December.

The departure of Costa Rica and Brazil reduces the League membership to 52 states, this number including Argentina, which although it has not yet ratified the covenant, pays dues and is represented on the disarmament and
the council reorganization commissions.

GRUNDY ADVANCED MONEY EVERY FEW DAYS TO AID SENATOR PEPPER'S CAMPAIGN

BRAZIL GIVES
2-YEAR NOTICE OF QUITTING LEAGUE

Announcement Made at Geneva of Withdrawal of Rio Government Under Article I of Covenant.

DECISION A SURPRISE TO LEAGUE OFFICIALS

Effect on Other South American Nations Problematical, With Talk of Western Association.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, June 14.—Brazil has resigned from the League of Nations. This announcement was made officially this morning.

Article I of the League Covenant stipulates that any member, after two years' notice of its intention to do so, may withdraw from the League, "provided all its international obligations and all its obligations under this Covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of withdrawal."

Text of Withdrawal.

Brazil's resignation, which reached Secretary-General Sir Eric Drummond today in the form of a cable message from Felix Pacheco, Brazilian Foreign Minister, says:

"In a statement of reasons sent to Ambassador Mello Franco and already doubtless published by the League of Nations and communicated to all its members, Brazil resigned her place as a temporary member of the Council.

"This statement of the Brazilian position said at the end that Brazil awaited the opportunity to complete her act by declining the League to be a member of the League."

"Having just received notice of the convocation of the September Assembly, at which she cannot be represented, Brazil feels it her duty to declare that this circumstance imposes the necessity to formulate now (and she does formulate it by the present communication) her resolution to withdraw from the League. This dispatch to be considered as a notice prescribed by the latter part of Article
I of the Covenant."

"I take the opportunity to reiterate assurance of my high consideration."

PUGILIST SHOT TO DEATH DURING STREET BRAWL

Buddy McHale, in Private Life Walter W. Burgoyne, 22, Had Police as Well as Ring Record.

HIS FATHER ALSO WAS PRIZEFIGHTER

Proprietor of Saloon, Who Had Refused to Sell Him Whisky, Named in Dying Statement.

Buddy McHale, a middleweight pugilist, and son of a former prizefighter, fought for the last time early today. He engaged in a brawl at Jefferson and Cass avenues and was shot and killed, thus ending a tempestuous career that included many ring battles, 47 arrests by police on various charges and two convictions in court.

In private life he was Walter W. Burgoyne, 22 years old, of 2616 Howard street, son of Walter W. Burgoyne Sr., who was "Kid Burgoyne" in the prize ring years ago. In accord with gang ethics he refused to tell police who shot him, but to his father he whispered in his last moments at City Hospital: "Costello shot me—Costello shot me."

Saloon Proprietor Held. Under arrest at the Dayton Street Police Station is William Costello, 42 years old, proprietor of a saloon at the southeast corner of Jefferson and Cass, who refused to serve whisky to McHale and his companion and was afterwards beaten as he left his saloon to go to his home at 1502 Benton street at 1 a. m. today. Costello then re-entered his saloon and got a revolver. Shots followed and McHale dropped in the street and died. But Costello declines to admit that he fired the shots.

When the coroner's inquest is held tomorrow, police will present statements from witnesses giving the following account of Buddy McHale's last fight.

McHale and an intoxicated companion entered Costello's saloon at 10:30 p. m. and demanded whisky. Costello was present, and Joe Calvert, the bartender, said he had no whisky. McHale and his companion started a rumous and were ordered out by Costello.

Man Attacked, Arms Self. Thereupon McHale and his friend joined other men on the street corner and amused themselves by addressing women who passed. Some of the remarks were insulting. Finally, at 12:45, Costello started home. He was entering his Hudson coach, parked at the curb, when McHale and his intoxicated companion pulled him out and began hitting and kicking him. Costello went down, but he regained his feet and ran back into his saloon. In a few seconds he reappeared in the doorway with a revolver.

"You ———, I'll kill you," shouted someone at this juncture. McHale and his friend took to their heels. Shots were heard, and McHale, running south in Jefferson, dropped at the west side of the street, 100 feet south of Cass. Dayton Street police came from all directions and intercepted Costello and a friend, Michael Russell, 22, of 4947 St. Louis avenue, as they were getting into the automobile. Under a front seat of the car was found a revolver with four discharged cartridges and two not discharged.

Taken to City Hospital. McHale was found to be suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen. Two other bullets had grazed his arms and legs. He had been drinking. His father was sent for when he refused to talk to police.

Tells Father Who Shot Him. "Buddy, you may or may not die—tell me who shot you," pleaded the father.

Buddy looked at the policemen in the room and kept his mouth shut. The policemen withdrew and he told his father that Costello had shot him. A few minutes later Costello was brought before him to be identified, but he had lapsed into unconsciousness. He died at 2:45 a. m.

Costello was bruised about the face, and his white shirt was stained with his own blood. Questioned about the fight, he would say nothing, except: "All I know is that I got a good trimming out of it for myself. This is no time to say anything."

Held as a witness is Costello's friend, Russell, who was in the saloon when the trouble started and outside when the shots were fired. He says Costello with a revolver, but he had his back turned when the shots were fired. Another important witness is Mrs. Mabel Lucier of 2600A Cass avenue, who watched the street fight from her window. The man who was with McHale escaped and is being sought.

Police records show Costello's saloon has been raided four times for liquor. Warrants were refused each time.

McHale was out on bond, pending appeal from a jail sentence of one year for stealing an automobile and of four months for carrying concealed weapons.

PARKING PROHIBITED BY ORDINANCE ALONG ROUTE OF TOMORROW'S PARADE

To avoid confusion in parking downtown tomorrow, Chief of Police Gerk today requested that the public inform itself on the provisions of a special ordinance, passed last week by the Board of Aldermen, prohibiting the parking of vehicles on streets which will form the route of the Alhambra Grotto (Masonic) parade, and adjoining streets on which the lines will form.

Under the special ordinance no parking will be permitted tomorrow from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m., on either side of the following streets:

Market, from Twelfth to Fourteenth; Twelfth, from Clark to Olive; Olive, from Broadway to Twelfth; Broadway from Olive to Washington; Washington to Locust; Locust, from Twelfth to Leonard; Lindell, from Locust to West Pine; West Pine, from Locust to Kingshighway; Clark, from Eleventh to Fourteenth; and Walnut from Eleventh to Twelfth.

JOHN RUTHERFORD FAILS TO APPEAR AT BENDER TRIAL

only the striking off of four men by each side to form the jury.

Polk County Judge Will Preside at Bender's Felony Trial July 6. Judge Cornelius H. Skinner of Bolivar, Polk County, who presides over the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit in Southwest Missouri, was named today by Circuit Judge Landwehr to be the case of Circuit Attorney Siderer and A. Samuel Bender, charged with compounding a felony, in the settlement of the William Allen Scott Rutherford murder case by payment of a $500 fine.

Judge Landwehr set the case, which will be heard in his courtroom, for Tuesday, July 6. The selection of Judge Skinner was determined upon by Judge Landwehr after he disqualified himself on the ground that he had been a witness before the grand jury in the Rutherford investigation. Judge Skinner is 42 years old and was appointed to the bench by Gov. Hadley in 1909, following which he was elected in 1910, 1916 and 1922.

Objection was made, in behalf of Circuit Attorney Siderer, to the naming of a judge from outside St. Louis, on the ground that not all the local Circuit Judges have been before the grand jury in the Rutherford case.

William Baer, attorney for Siderer, said Bender's action was not binding on Siderer. The Court stated that there had been no formal severance of the felony cases against Siderer and Bender thus far.

Gentry Makes Public Letter He Sent to John Rutherford. Attorney-General Gentry this afternoon made public the text of the letter which he mailed last Friday afternoon to John Rutherford, addressed to Pine Bluff, Ark. The letter was written after the Attorney-General's return from his conference with Rutherford and his attorney in Pine Bluff, which took place Thursday. Gentry made it public to show that he specified, as a condition of immunity for both of the Rutherford boys, only that John should tell the whole truth. The letter was:

"Pursuant to my talk with you yesterday (Thursday), I am writing to say that I shall expect Mr. John Rutherford to appear Monday morning to testify in the Court of Criminal Correction, Division I, in the case of the State vs. A. Samuel Bender.

"Tell him to be sure to bring all letters and telegrams as I asked him to do yesterday; also his bank account, canceled checks and memoranda showing the amount of money paid by him to any of the parties or attorneys in St. Louis.

"As I stated to you and Mr. John Rutherford yesterday, if he will come whenever wanted and testify in Missouri in these cases, and testify to the whole truth, and keep

DOCTOR ARRESTED FOR ABDUCTION OF 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Caseville, Ill., Physician Alleged to Have Invited Venetia Maher, Missing Since Thursday to Office

Dr. David Provan, 54 years old, who has been practicing medicine for the last two months at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, and at Caseville, Ill., was arrested in Caseville yesterday for the alleged abduction of Venetia Maher, 15, of Caseville. A warrant was issued today.

Venetia had been staying with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Ohlendorf, in Caseville. State's Attorney Lindauer said today it was reported that Dr. Provan had been seen talking with the girl a number of times, the last occasion being a few minutes before her disappearance last Thursday. She told her aunt that she had just received an important telephone call from St. Louis and would have to leave at once. She did not explain the message.

Mrs. Ohlendorf said Venetia had reported that Dr. Provan several times had invited her to go to his office in Caseville. The girl's aunt forbade her to do so.

Saturday Ohlendorf received a letter, mailed in Caseville, purporting to be from Venetia, which the State's Attorney declared was not in the child's handwriting. It said, in part: "I have gone away and you need not attempt to get me to come back, because it will be impossible to find me. I decided to go away some time ago and thought Thursday was as good a time as any."

Dr. Provan was arrested when he visited Caseville yesterday. At the county jail in Belleville, State's Attorney Lindauer related, he denied the accusation and said he had only taken care of the girl professionally. He said he came from Omaha, Neb.

U. S. CUSTOMS OFFICERS TURN COAL-HEAVERS IN LIQUOR HUNT

Twelve Cases of Whisky Seized on British Steamer in Port at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Seeking to enforce the Federal prohibition laws, eight customs officials turned coal-heavers today and for several hours toiled in the bunkers of the British steamer Exeter City. Twelve cases of whisky were their reward.

Accompanied by Dr. W. W. Chapman, chief medical inspector, the officials had gone aboard to examine the cargo. Everything was all right until they entered the bunkers and began jabbing into the piles of coal with long, sharp-pointed steel rods. Dr. Chapman's rod struck a suspicious object.

The customs officials asked the Captain to order the shovels away from the coal. The request was refused and the customs men pitched in. Capt. Reece, master of the vessel, was summoned to appear before the Collector of the Port to explain the presence of the whisky.

SENATE COMMITTEE FOR POSTPONING LIQUOR BILLS

Action Will Place Measures on Calendar Making Possible a Floor.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The entire group of bills to modify the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law will be reported to the Senate with a recommendation that they be postponed indefinitely. The Judiciary committee decided today upon such action, adopted in the report of the sub-committee which recently held extensive hearings upon prohibition.

The committee's action places the measures on the calendar, making possible a fight on the Senate floor.

Federal and State Grand Juries Going Into Ferguson Case. The frauds in the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., which so far have been unpublished, this week will be the subject of two inquisitorial bodies.

The State grand jury will resume its investigation Thursday to determine whether to indict. Ferguson, president, who has admitted participation in false statements by which the company borrowed more than $2,000,000.

The Federal grand jury tomorrow will hear the report of Post-office Inspectors who have investigated to see whether the mails were used in obtaining the loans upon the false statements and whether such use constituted violation of the statute against use of the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

Grundy Advanced Money For Pepper's Campaign

he made out Mr. Folwell was in the city?"

"Yes. It was a highly illuminating session. Folwell, the first witness, identified himself as a woolen goods manufacturer, vice president of the association of which Grundy is the head, and the president of an insurance company. He was the treasurer of the committee formed to work for Pepper and Fisher."

Call Sent Out in March. Early in March, he said, a call was issued for a meeting to organize a committee. About 30 attended. They elected Alva Johnson, former president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, as their president and Folwell as treasurer.

It came out later that Folwell is a go-getter of distinction. He was the head of the Ways and Means Committee, which raised $500,000 for the Harding campaign in 1920, in the eastern part of the State alone. "We did pretty well in that campaign," said Folwell.

Folwell handed to Reed a batch of 18 receipts which he said had been given to Grundy to cover his various advances. He said that he himself had been in Europe during most of the active campaign, and that the receipts had been rubber-stamped with his name by Gorman, acting as treasurer.

Never Saw Receipts, He Says. Folwell said he had not seen the receipts before this morning; they had been handed to him in the committee room by Gorman, while both were waiting to testify.

Reed and King looked over the papers closely. Reed handed them back across the table to the witness.

"Look at these papers," he said severely, "and see if they were not all made out at once?"

"I wouldn't think so," said Folwell.

Reed and King gave the evidence on which they based their deduction, but the witness refused to agree with them. The most they could get from him was that the papers might have been typed from the same ribbon.

He said he had first heard of the receipts when he came back from Europe on May 6. He had not made any inquiries about them. Reed wanted to know if he was in the city at the time the receipts were attached to papers involving $300,000 without making inquiries. Reed's sarcasm left the witness utterly unmoved.

Asked About $90,000 Loan. Folwell was led to tell about the $90,000 loan that Grundy signed jointly at the Corn Exchange Bank. He could not tell what had caused him to borrow the money in that case, instead of getting it as usual direct from Grundy.

The committee, he said, needed money and needed it promptly. Grundy told him that if he would borrow it, Grundy would put his name on the note along with Folwell's. He understood that the money was needed to pay watchers at the polls for the Pepper-Fisher ticket.

Reed pressed the witness to tell how he expected to be repaid. He replied that there was no understanding between him and Grundy as to how he was to get his money back. Reed remarked that his complete trust "would be commendable if it applied only to his religion."

Folwell would only say that he expected to recover his money, outside of a "modest contribution" on his own part, from Pennsylvania Republicans. No, there was no definite group that he had in mind.

Refuses to Name Anyone. "Now, Mr. Folwell," said Reed, with the manner of a father to a prodigal son, "tell us all about it."

"We felt," said Folwell, "that our own party, the Republicans, would come to our aid."

"Are you so wealthy that you can afford to lose the half of $90,000?" "No, sir."

"Well, then, you must have had some definite idea of how you could get your money back. Can you not name some of the people that you thought might reimburse you?" "No, sir."

Under further grilling, the witness said he knew that if other sources failed, Grundy would help him out.

You just went to the bank on a five-year loan of assurance and signed your name to a note for $90,000?" asked Reed. "You expected him to make good if necessary."

The witness nodded an assent.

and Reed told this official reporter to get the "yes" into the record.

Knows of No Other Loans. Reed read from Grundy's testimony a statement that Folwell had signed other notes.

"He meant those receipts," said the witness. He added that he knew of no loans to the Pepper committee outside of those already disclosed.

Reed said that he still could not understand how he had come to obligate himself for $90,000 without somebody's having agreed to underwrite the campaign.

"Was there any underwriter other than Mr. Grundy?" he asked. "No, sir."

"Did Mr. Grundy agree to underwrite the campaign?" "No, sir."

"Then," flashed Reed, "why did you say just now that there was no 'other' underwriter?"

The witness repeated that he knew of no underwriter.

Witness Sidesteps Questions. "Isn't it a fact," asked Reed, "that you intended to collect from the manufacturers who are in the Pepper-Fisher campaign?"

"We expected to collect from citizens of Pennsylvania, whether manufacturers or not."

Reed and King tried to get an admission that a levy was to be made on the Manufacturers' Association and that the receipts had been made up by Grundy.

He said he expected the manufacturers to contribute "as individuals," as they had done in the Harding campaign, but not as members of the association.

Senator King suggested that the collection of money would be facilitated by the "love feast" of Saturday, when the Vane and Pepper factions ended their feud.

"I can't say," said the witness. "I hope so."

He said that he had not yet had time to start collecting the $90,000. It was lent on a demand note and he understood that Grundy had paid interest on it.

Issued Organization Call. Frank J. Gorman, the next witness, said that he was a real estate assessor in Philadelphia. He told of issuing the call for the Pepper-Fisher organization meeting. Grundy, he said, got him to arrange the meeting.

Gorman then told in detail, under a rapid-fire questioning, about the money handed to him by Grundy. An advance of $18,240 was made in cash. It was turned over by Grundy at committee headquarters and was used for the payment of persons hired to get out the vote on registration day. They were paid according to a schedule made out by W. W. Rogers, chief of the Pepper Philadelphia committee.

"This money," asked Reed, "was made up in wads and turned over to the ward leaders?"

"Yes, it was turned over to the ward leaders."

Other contributions by Grundy, for none of which was a receipt given at the time, were for "advertising, postage and the general needs of the treasury."

Soldier-Poet Says: He Will Remain in Seclusion Until All Saints' Day, Nov. 1.

By the Associated Press. GARDONE, Italy, June 14.—Gardone d'Annunzio, Italy's noted soldier-poet, notified the world today, through a communication to the press, that he had shut himself in his workshop and would remain there until All Saints' day, Nov. 1.

"Gardone d'Annunzio," the communication reads, "notifies his innumerable clients—and without bitterness the many mad men who wave flags, and the mad men who are attracted by his ancient wisdom—that from June 11 until All Saints' day he will remain shut up in his workshop where his daily labors cannot be interrupted except by a nuntiate thunderbolt."

He said that he had not yet had time to start collecting the $90,000. It was lent on a demand note and he understood that Grundy had paid interest on it.

He Is Fired on by Policeman and Private Watchman When He Tries to Escape After Arrest.

An unidentified Negro, about 30 years old, was shot and killed by Policeman Prader and Private Watchman Dotson of East St. Louis at 2 o'clock this morning when he attempted to escape after they had arrested him when he was ransacking a house occupied by Negroes at 315 North Third street, East St. Louis.

The policemen were called by neighbors who saw a light in the house, from which they knew the family was absent. After he was taken from the house the Negro told them there was another man inside. When Prader started to re-enter the Negro grappled with Dotson and ran. Prader and Dotson fired nine shots before the Negro fell. They found in his pocket a small book in which was written the name "Ben Meroff."

By the Associated Press.
WORCESTER, Mass., June 14.—While nearly 50 persons looked on, Gustaf A. Botcher fought with a bear to rescue his four-year-old daughter, who had been pulled into the pen by the animal.

The child was feeding candy to the animal, on exhibition at Northboro, when it suddenly reached out and clawed her dress. The father leaped into the pit, but did not relieve the child from the bear's embrace until she had been severely clawed and bitten. Physicians reported her condition serious, due chiefly to the shock.

Two in Auto Killed at Bridge.
By the Associated Press.
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., June 14.—Two men were drowned here yesterday when their automobile broke through an open bridge near Las Olas Beach. Elias Flaum, 45 years old, of Fort Lauderdale, was pinned beneath the wreck. Thomas C. Butler, 35 years old, of Oliver Springs, Tenn., escaped from the closed car, but drowned in the swift current.

Rastus sports a "sparkler"

—it shines like a diamond. But oh, what a difference!

Many a bright piece of glass is sold as a diamond. And sometimes cheese of lesser value is sold as Kraft's. In either case the deception is not for the benefit of the purchaser. Decidedly not.

When you ask for Kraft Cheese—and get it—that merchant is accepting less profit than he could make, to give you greater value. That's another meaning of the Kraft Label—greater value.

VARIETIES:
Swiss, Pimento, American, Brick, Old English, Colby, Limburger, Cheddar, Cream, 1/2 lb. and 1 lb. cans, 3 lb. boxes and in packages and jars

Mothex Garment Bags

Guaranteed Mothproof and Dustproof

69c

3 for $2.00

Moths eat thousands of dollars' worth of clothes each year. Save yours by storing them away during the Summer months in dependable mothproof bags. Mothex Bags are made of heavy cedarized paper, in the convenient side-opening style, and are absolutely moistureproof, dustproof, airproof and mothproof. A special feature is the sanitary white lining that prolongs the life of the Bag, making it possible to use it for several years.

Mothex Bags are 28 inches wide and 55 inches long and have a gusset 4 inches wide—making plenty of room for several garments.

These Roomy Bags Will Hold Several Garments

The side-opening is an especially convenient feature—it prevents musing of the garments and makes them accessible during the Summer—simply open the fastener and take out the garment you want.

The Mothex Bag will hold several garments—dresses, suits, overcoats or men's suits—each on a strong wire hanger, which carries the entire weight of the garment and prevents strain on the paper bag.

Mail and Telephone Orders Will Be Promptly Filled

VEILED DRUSE QUEEN CITES FABLE OF COWS

Interview With the Lady of Mukhtara in Her Syrian Fastness.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1926
MUKHTARA, Syria, June 14.—
The writer has just seen and interviewed Thasir Nazira E Jumlat, the "veiled lady of Mukhtara," and known throughout Syria to thousands of followers as "Queen of the Druses."

As head of the powerful Jum-lat clan, Lady Nazira is titular leader of most of the Druses in Lebanon. She lives like a queen in a feudal castle at Mukhtara;
she has the homage of the French officials as well as that of her Druse serfs. She claims descent from Saladin.

With a Druse guide, the writer reached Mukhtara after a hard day's motor ride from Beirut across the Lebanon mountains. After a final bounce along precipitous
cliffs, we were suddenly confronted with a long stretch of fertile green valley, with olive, pomegranate and apricot trees, commanded by Mukhtara Castle. Its great feudal walls, three feet thick, rise
from a mass of dungeons which are built directly over a quick-gushing river. The superstructure of the castle is divided into two parts, one of Arabesque type, with slender Moorish columns and high,
lacy windows, the other of later
Roman design.

Lady Nazira received us in a room with tiled floors and blazing rugs, with a porphyry fountain bubbling water in the center. We sat in European chairs, Lady Nazira on a divan.

Lady Nazira received us in a
out Syria, not only for her power, but for her beauty. And although she was heavily veiled in a long scarf of purple silk, shot through with gold, it could be seen from her enormous liquid brown eyes,
vivid arched black brows and high-piled hair, black as midnight, that the legend was not by any means untrue.

Aside from the veil, her costume was "European. She speaks good English, but preferred to talk Arabic through an interpreter.

On account of the military situation, Lady Nazira did not wish to discuss politics. As a sort of intermediary figure between the French and the Druses, she must manage to steer a path between the French High Commissioner at Beirut and her country people.

But as she discussed the fate of her lonely people, she quoted an Arabic proverb in reference to the situation:
"They said to the cows, 'when you die we will wrap you in fine
linen sheets.' But the cows replied,
'We shall be very happy if we can keep our own hides.'"

Likewise Lady Nazira referred to the practical impossibility of getting the facts of the Syrian situation to the world with both Beirut and Damascus "besieged cities" and the French censorship preventing the story of the Druses
from getting outside. She said she thought the situation was improving. But she quoted another Arabic maxim: "When we hope,
we hope with our hearts, but when hope fails, there is always the sword."

She wanted to hear about life
in America—of American clothes, women and children. She turned to the writer with the direct question, "How many children have you?" When he replied "none," she said "I am terribly sorry. I shall pray for you."

Before we took our leave, the veiled lady asked to show us her own daughter and son. The son is her heir—a 7-year-old prince.

The Queen is a widow. Her husband was assassinated last year by an armed band of Circassians.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

On Face, Troubled Several Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled for several years with pimples and blackheads on my face which made me feel very uncomfortable at times. The pimples were hard and red, and itched
and burned a great deal. I tried various remedies without relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued
the treatment, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box
of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed, in about a month." "Signed" Miss Bonnie Presdenstein, 818 Clinton St., Adrian, Mich.

Use Cuticura Soap regularly, assisted by Cuticura Ointment when required, and have a clear, fresh complexion, free from pimples or blackheads.

Underselling June Events

TUESDAY—EVENT NO. 13—THE GREATEST SHIRT SALE THIS STORE HAS EVER ANNOUNCED — 12,000 brand-new Shirts—bought especially for this event—shown Tuesday for the first time—sold practically at cost. Take your pick in this sale at $1.10. Strong language—but facts. You've never before seen such an array of Shirts.

Begins Tuesday at 8 A. M.—A Shirt Triumph

Unusually Fine Quality—ALL WHITE—Collar-Attached and Neckband Styles—The Lowest Price Ever Quoted for Shirts Like These

Men will carry away these imported broadcloth Shirts by the armful Tuesday.

BECAUSE Shirts of the same and similar qualities in most instances are being sold throughout St. Louis at prices 50 per cent higher, and even more (this estimate made by actual comparison).

BECAUSE the Shirts are exceptionally fine quality—of English broadcloth that has a silky sheen that tubbing will not remove.

NEVER have we sold imported broadcloth Shirts like these for $1.10—or near that price.

We tell you this fact because there are many inferior grades of broadcloth on the market today, and we want you to know that this broadcloth is of uniformly high quality.

Of Particular Importance

1. The Shirts are made with careful attention to the minute details—UNUSUAL in Shirts at such a price.
2. The attached collars are the very new, long pointed style.
3. The collar - attached Shirts have seven buttons (good quality pearl) down the front; the neckband style, six. Finer stitching. These are features of workmanship that only the finer Shirts have.
4. Every Shirt is fresh and clean, and will be sold from its original box.
5. There are the short sleeves — 32 inches — and the long ones — 36 inches — and all the collar sizes.

(Nugent's—Main Floor, North.)

"How is it possible to sell FINE English broadcloth Shirts for $1.10?" you will ask.

Some months ago we made arrangements with one of the best manufacturers in the shirt business to utilize the dull periods of the year. When business was slow, he made up these Shirts for us—at scarcely any profit. The savings that we made was almost one-third of the usual cost—and it is this saving that we are offering to the public Tuesday.

VEILED DRUSE QUEEN CITES FABLE OF COWS

Interview With the Lady of Mukhtara in Her Syrian Fastness.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1936. MUKHTARA, Syria, June 14.—The writer has just seen and interviewed Thoset Nazira E Jumblat, the "veiled lady of Mukhtara," and known throughout Syria to thousands of followers as "Queen of the Druses."

As head of the powerful Jumblat clan, Lady Nazira is titular leader of most of the Druses in Lebanon. She lives like a queen in a feudal castle at Mukhtara, she has the homage of the French officials as well as that of her Druse serfs. She claims descent from Saladin.

With a Druse guide, the writer reached Mukhtara after a hard day's motor ride from Beirut across final bounces along precipitous cliffs, we were suddenly confronted with a long stretch of fertile green valley, with olive, pomegranate and apricot trees, commanded by Mukhtara Castle. Its great feudal walls, three feet thick, rise from a mass of dungeons which are built directly over a quick-gushing river. The superstructure of the castle is divided into two parts, one of Arabesque type, with slender Moorish columns and high, lacy windows, the other of later Roman design.

Lady Nazira received us in a room with tiled floors and blazing rugs, with a porphyry fountain bubbling water in the center. We sat in European chairs, Lady Nazira on a divan.

Lady Nazira received us in a room with tiled floors and blazing rugs, with a porphyry fountain bubbling water in the center. We sat in European chairs, Lady Nazira on a divan.

On account of the military situation, Lady Nazira did not wish to discuss politics. As a sort of intermediary figure between the French and the Druses, she must manage to steer a path between the French High Commissioner at Beirut and her country people.

But as she discussed the fate of her lonely people, she quoted an Arabic proverb in reference to the situation: "They said to the cows, 'when you die we will wrap you in fine linen sheets.' But the cows replied, 'We shall be very happy if we can keep our own hides.'"

Likewise Lady Nazira referred to the practical impossibility of getting the facts of the Syrian situation to the world with both Beirut and Damascus "besieged cities" and the French censorship preventing the story of the Druses from getting outside. She said she thought the situation was improving. But she quoted another Arabian maxim: "When we hope, we hope with our hearts, but when hope fails, there is always the sword."

She wanted to hear about life in America—of American clothes, women and children. She turned to the writer with the direct question, "How many children have you?" When he replied "none," she said "I am terribly sorry. I shall pray for you."

Before we took our leave, the veiled lady asked to show us her own daughter and son. The son is her heir—a 7-year-old prince. The Queen is a widow. Her husband was assassinated last year by an armed band of Circassians.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

On Face. Troubled Several Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled for several years with pimples and blackheads on my face which made me feel very uncomfortable at times. The pimples were hard and red, and itched and burned a great deal. I tried various remedies without relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued the treatment, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed, in about a month." (Signed) Miss Bonnie Frodenstein, 818 Clinton St., Adrian, Mich.

Use Cuticura Soap regularly, as required, and have a clear, fresh complexion, free from pimples or blackheads.

SUSPECT NAMES ANOTHER AS REAL SLAYER OF MAN

One of Two Prisoners Held by Coroner's Jury Says Raymond Fischel, 25, Killed Edgar McCormick.

Raymond Fischel, 25 years old, a pipefitter, of 3682A Laclede avenue, was named today as the slayer of Constant Edgar McCormick, known as Edward T. Taylor, who was shot early last Tuesday in his all-night home-brew flat at 3330A Olive street. He was accused of the murder in a signed statement by Albert J. Ruhlman, alias Ollie Weber, jointly charged with Fischel with homicide by a Coroner's jury Saturday.

Ruhlman was arrested yesterday with his wife, Marie, at Hine, St. Louis County, where they were living in a tent at a construction camp in connection with the new Missouri River waterworks. In his statement, he declared that Fischel shot McCormick under the belief that McCormick had "snitched" in a robbery.

Describes Shooting.
Ruhlman said he accompanied Fischel and a third man to McCormick's flat and was in the kitchen when McCormick was shot in the second-floor hall. He had met Fischel and the third man for the first time earlier that night in another home-brew place which he said was at 3921 Olive street, where McCormick's wife was a guest.

Fischel suggested, according to Ruhlman, that they drive to McCormick's place, which they did, accompanied by the third man and Mrs. Ruhlman, who waited in the machine while they entered.

They were admitted by a man who explained that McCormick was absent. Ruhlman said, and Fischel strode through the place warning the man and a couple who were there, "You'd better get out; there's going to be trouble."

Ruhlman said he was in the kitchen with the third man when McCormick entered the building. He heard a shot in the hall, and ran out to see Fischel with a revolver and McCormick on the floor, he declared.

To Roadhouse After Shooting.
They ran back to the machine. Ruhlman continued, and drove to a St. Louis County roadhouse, stopping on the way to get a young woman friend of the third man. Ruhlman said he did not know the names of this couple.

"I asked Fischel, 'Why did you do that?'" Ruhlman related. "He said, 'The dirty... won't talk any more, now.'"

"Where did you hit him?" I asked, and he said 'I hit him right through the head where I wanted to. When Cutie Fischel hits them, they're hit.'"

Ruhlman said that Fischel told him of a recent holdup of a dice

At Your Druggist

game on Olive street. "I asked McCormick to go on that job, but he told me he had quit stealing," he said, according to Ruhlman. "I hid him now so he won't talk again."

Returning from the roadhouse, Ruhlman said Fischel insisted on driving. They stayed at Vandeventer avenue and Olive street, where they found Mrs. Fischel in a restaurant. She told them McCormick had been killed, and Fischel exclaimed, "Can you imagine that?" Ruhlman declared.

Ruhlman had been accused by McCormick's widow who testified at the inquest that she heard him threaten to "blow up Taylor's dump" while at the resort at 3921 Olive street. Ruhlman explained that she had misunderstood. Arthur Pollard, who operates the place, had accused McCormick of "giving him a dirty deal," and Ruhlman had replied, "If he did me a dirty trick like that, I'd get a couple of rods and blow up his dump."

Ruhlman's story as corroborated by his wife, and both identified Fischel as the slayer. He was taken to Laclede Avenue District, where they were questioned, and was then returned to Central District holdover. He persisted in his refusal to answer questions.

The Doctrine of the Church and the Lutheran Church

The Christian Church is made up of the individual church denominations. A Christian is one who believes that he is saved from his sins and alone by Jesus Christ who, through the sacrifice of His blood, has made a vicarious and complete atonement for all sin, inherited and actual. Every church body in which error and false doctrine is taught Christians can be found. They are Christians by God's grace in spite of these errors.

SALE OF BALKY FLIVVER FOR $35 EMBROILS 3 MEN

One Volunteer to Make Car Run
He Does and Then the Eight Starts.

A dilapidated "flivver," the best that $35 would buy, was the center

of a three-cornered fight at

Twenty-second street and Maiden

Lane yesterday afternoon. It all began when the automobile, just purchased by Edward Burhardt,

41 years old, of 2417 North Jefferson avenue, refused to run. Bur-hardt reproached its former owner,

Walter Tibbles, of 2320 Madison street, with the failure of the $35

machine, and Albert Jaggle, of 2337

Maiden Lane, volunteered to make the car run.

He did—right into a pole a few feet from the scene of the test

run. The flivver was wrecked and the men began to fight.

Patrolman Theodore Meier, who happened along, arrested all three and charged them with police disturbance, but they refused to prosecute one another, so were released.

Man Wounded by Strangers.

Carl Cowell, 28 years old, of 1419

North Park place, taken to City

Hospital at 6 o'clock last night

from Broadway and Dextrehan

street suffering from a fractured

nose and a cut requiring eight stitches, told policemen he had been attacked by two strangers

without provocation. He said he believed he was the victim of mistaken identity.

Exploding Alcohol Burns Negro.

Abraham Simms, 19 years old, a Negro, of 1022 South Compton avenue, lit a cigarette while and James Jones, 30, were poring alcohol from a can to a bottle in the basement of Jones' home at 2028 Papin street yesterday. There was an explosion as Simms' match fell in the alcohol. He and Jones were seriously burned and the house was slightly damaged.

Who's Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him he won't have to swallow
the nasty oil with the nauseating
fishy taste because the McCoy Laboratories of New York are now putting out Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil
Compound Tablets—Wolf-Wilson Drug Stores, Ender's Drug Co. and every druggist sells them—60 tablets
—60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh
in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong.
Feeble, old people feel younger in a few weeks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original
and genuine and avoid imitations.

CREW OF BURNED VESSEL SAFE

Ten Members of Motion Picture Expedition Return to Port.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 14.—Destruction by fire of their craft, the 80-ton schooner, off the Mexican Coast, is reported by 10 members of a motion expedition departed from this port last March to film marine life in Mexican waters off Lower California. They returned yesterday aboard the steamer Washington.

The Fortuna, they said, burned off the shores of Los Flores, a small Mexican town. o quickly did the flames do their work, they related, that they barely escaped with their lives and the film of their three months' work.

Street Car Fares

The Cost of the Ride

Three Factors

1. Operating Expense

The first and largest part of the cost of a ride is operating expense. Two-thirds of all operating costs consist of wages paid to employees. The remaining one-third is money paid for settlement of claims for injuries and damages arising out of accidents involving street cars; cost of electric power purchased for street car operation; and materials necessary for repairs and replacements.

2. Taxes

Taxes make up the second large factor of the cost of a ride. Each rider pays, as a part of his car fare, taxes which are collected by the street railway company for and turned over to the governmental authorities. Exclusive of paving, the amount of taxes car riders here paid for the year 1925 was $1,828,567.20. Of this sum the City of St. Louis received for its use and for school purposes approximately $1,587,930.73, of which $628,569.88 was special taxes (franchise and mill taxes). In addition the car riders pay annually, through car fares as part of the cost of the rides, more than $400,000.00 for street paving in the track zone.

3. Compensation for Use of Property

Compensation for the use of the property required to furnish the ride is the remaining factor in the cost of the ride. The Public Service Commission of the State determines the value of this property and the rate of compensation to be paid to the company for its use. This determination allows the company only a reasonable return on fair value with no provision for any profit.

The costs which fall under these three heads: operating expense, taxes, and compensation for use of property make up the entire cost to the public, the street car fares.

Fare Adjustment

Transportation Vital

Application has been made to the Public Service Commission of the State, which body regulates street car fares, for authority to increase the adult fare from 7c to 8c cash or two tokens for 15c. Receiver Wells estimates that this total fare will be needed to pay the cost of the ride.

This statement is made by the St. Louis Public Service Company, which expects, when the receivership is ended, to take over and operate the railways property now operated by the Receiver; confident that, with full knowledge of the situation, the people of Metropolitan St. Louis do not now and will not in the future expect the street car system, which is so necessary for the development of the community, to operate on a fare that does not pay for the cost of the ride.

Just a coil of wire. But installed in your home and connected to the power company's lines, it becomes a pathway charged with energy to do useful work for you.

Put plenty of backbone into your home

HERE'S a backbone that will save yours. It's an electrical spinal column—a coil of metal-covered wire that encloses and protects wires just as your backbone encloses and protects nerves. And these wires, like your nerves, are pathways for energy.

There's an expert at your service, to wire your house effectively—your electrical contractor. He knows where switches and convenience outlets should be placed for the best service. He will recommend supplies of high quality—the kind distributed by Graybar.

If you don't know who or where such contractors are, phone or write to us—we'll be glad to tell you.

The electrical backbone makes all housework easy, when used in connection with dependable Graybar appliances like this Graybar vacuum cleaner.

Public Must Decide at the Polls Whether to Accept or Reject It

C. E. SMITH ANALYZES OFFER TO INTERCHANGE USES OF EADS AND MUNICIPAL SPANS

Points Out Three Vital Flaws—Evasion of Definite Pledge of Improvements, Throttling of Competition, Lack of Guaranty, That City Can Close Tunnel for Subway.

C. E. SMITH, consulting engineer to the city, at the request of the Post-Dispatch, has analyzed for voters who will be called upon to approve or reject it, the ordinance for the reorganization of the St. Louis district railroad terminals proposed by the Chamber of Commerce Terminals committee.

Smith was consulting engineer for the committee throughout its deliberations. He wrote the report of the engineers' committee outlining an inspiring plan for the reorganization, which the ordinance was to make effective.

In his opinion, the proposed ordinance presents only the "tailored ends" of that plan, which was calculated to produce yearly savings of many millions of dollars to shippers and the railroads. The ordinance he points out are:

1. It delivers the municipal bridge to the railroads, which they have greatly desired, while withholding definite assurance of some 30 major improvements to cost $50,000,000, which shippers have desired and which are necessary if reorganization is to accomplish the savings sought.
2. It permits the Terminal Railroad to operate the municipal bridge upon terms which would forever prevent any competition with it, or any threat against its excessive arbitrary charge for hauling freight across the river.
3. It puts the railroads upon the municipal bridge perpetually but does not make certain a control of Eads Bridge by the city which will permit it to close the bridge's connecting tunnel, when that may become necessary under plans for rapid transit in the downtown area.

Cost of Original Plan.

"Originally," Smith said, "the ordinance contained all the means capable, in the opinion of engineers, for speeding up the movement of freight and making the inspiring reorganization plan effective for shippers and railroads alike. Through persistent whittling by the railroads, it now emerges little more than a proposal for exchange of uses of the bridges upon terms that are more advantageous to the railroads than to the city. Virtually all of the other essential improvements, stipulated by the engineers, have disappeared in a cloud of indefinite promises."

"The ordinance has been six years in the making. In 1920, President Smith of the New York Central and President Rea of the Pennsylvania let the word reach the Chamber of Commerce that the roads were ready to use the municipal bridge if the city would let reasonably."

"Accordingly, W. Frank Carter, then president of the chamber, appointed the General Terminals Committee. It did not take the committee long to discover that the use of the bridge was only half the solution of the predicament in which the railroads found themselves. Of what use was speeding up the river crossing if on both sides of the river freight became entangled in the time-killing maze of terminal facilities had fallen? It became apparent that the terminals must be simplified, unified, wasteful duplication eliminated, order restored."

"It was an engineer's problem and the job was given to engineers. A committee of 10 engineers was assigned to it. Five were railroad engineers. The chairman was a railroad engineer. The committee was thorough. It consulted more than 500,000 car records. It paced every mile of the terminal facilities in an area 25 miles square. Car accountants were employed for months at a time. They traced 3160 cars in and out of the terminals. They consumed two and one-half years in intensive study."

Confusion and Delay.

"They found many astonishing things. They found that the railroads were hauling freight about the district on circuitous routes. They were stumbling over one another. Each of the 15 major roads entering the city was solving the terminal problem in its own way. The result was duplication of facilities, a situation much like modern downtown street traffic with no traffic policeman—confusion. The penalty upon railroads was needless operating costs. The penalty upon shippers was wasted time. It was requiring three days to get a freight car from one side of the river to the other. Shippers were handing their freight to the roads and the roads were requiring four days to get that freight out of the district and on its way to destination."

"The committee estimated that an orderly, unified plan would result in a saving of 10,000,000 car miles a year. That meant several millions of dollars in operating expenses to the railroads alone. It was nothing of the various values of time saved to the shippers. The committee found one manufacturer who had devised a direct, quick way through the snarl and had computed that the interest saved on the money value of his shipments amounted to $60,000 a year."

"The committee had a cure. Its suggestions, in detail, with the evidence to back them, filled 378 printed pages. The report was unanimous. Every railroad engineer signed it. It was a vision from a high mountain for St. Louis. The report attracted attention in railroad circles throughout the country."

"The recommendations of the committee were specific. It suggested, as the cornerstone, the exchange of uses of Eads and municipal bridges. If all passenger trains were taken into Union Station over the municipal bridge, the Merchants Bridge would be freed of them and would be open to uninterrupted flow of freight—The first saving."

Interchange of Freight.

"But more important was the disclosure of delays after the freight had crossed the river. The committee found that only 15 per cent of the freight was handled without interchange. That is, only 15 per cent was delivered by the road that brought it in, or carried on its way to destination by the road that loaded it. The remaining 85 per cent was shunted from one road to another. For that purpose the roads were maintaining 45 classification yards, a majority in congested industrial districts. Some cars were requiring as many as five interchanges within the city. The Missouri Pacific at its Ivory street ferry makes the river crossing in a few minutes. But when ice blocks the ferry, as many as 16 hours are required to make the crossing by the Terminal. The east and west side lines of the Burlington are only three miles apart. That road can switch a car from the east to the west bank by way of Alton, a distance of 40 miles, in eight hours, but the Terminal was requiring as long as three days."

"At present," the committee concluded, "85 per cent of all the freight cars moving through the St. Louis district must be removed from the congested district where they do not belong."

"The major remedy suggested was the replacing of 45 yards in the congested district with eight yards on the fringe of the city. The committee estimated that this alone would save 30 per cent in car miles."

"Numerous other suggestions for speeding freight were made. The engineers were applauded and the General Committee set work to realize on their report. A sub-committee was appointed to prepare an ordinance. Within a few months the first draft was completed."

A 15-Year Program.

"It provided the consummation of virtually every important suggestion of the engineers."

"The city was to throw open the municipal bridge to the railroads. The railroads were to deliver Eads bridge to the city—deliver the title, absolute ownership. The theory was that, once on the municipal bridge, the railroads would virtually own the railroad deck. Nothing ever could put them off. Therefore, it was thought that the city should not risk ever being dispossessed of Eads bridge and tunnel."

"The railroads were to build a new passenger station in East St. Louis. They were to swap ownership of freight houses there, a measure that would eliminate a large number of grade crossings as well as simplify greatly the movement of freight in and out of the houses. These things were to be done immediately."

"Within five years the railroads were to:

- "Extend the elevated high line along the levee to connect with the Wabash, Burlington and city tracks at North Market street on the north and with the Missouri Pacific and city tracks at Rutgers street on the south. Result—lifting much through freight from street grade where it was mingling with freight destined for industries in the congested district along the river and freeing streets of much railroad traffic."
- "Remove the Missouri Pacific tracks from Poplar street, thus abolishing grade crossings which are dangerous and impede traffic."

"The railroads were allowed 15 years in which to complete the most pressing important projects, and were compelled to start within five years."

"All of the committee's recommendations for rearrangement of the classification yards and their reduction in number from 45 to 8 were included. It was stipulated that no road in the future should build its own individual receiving, classification or departure yards. The procedure that had produced the snarl never was to be repeated. There were several other technical provisions for curing the congestion and it was set forth that the roads should provide additional freight houses, team tracks and industry tracks."

Improvements Stipulated.

"The following other improvements were stipulated: 'Larger baggage, express, parcel post and mail facilities at Union Station. A new train shed for the station—of the modern umbrella type.'

"The establishment of a suburban station at Eighth and Market streets, with loading platforms at Grand boulevard, Jefferson avenue, Eighteenth and Twelfth streets."

"Additional team tracks and automobile loading and unloading facilities."

"Increased space for taxicabs at Union Station."

"Shipping facilities in the downtown industrial area were to be improved generally with additional tracks and means of loading and unloading."

"Additional engine, passenger coach and other storage tracks in the vicinity of Union Station were to be provided."

"No time limit was set upon these improvements. They were to be made when stipulated by a committee of three. One member of the committee was to represent the railroads, one the city and one the shippers, through the Chamber of Commerce. They were to study changing Terminal needs constantly and were clothed with authority to order the railroads to make the improvements. Their orders were subject to arbitration, but all the improvements specified by the engineers would have been realized sometime—whenever justified. The ordinance provided that the railroads pay $25,000 yearly to staff the committee with advisory technicians."

Time Limit Struck Out.

"As the ordinance stands today, it is stripped of certainty that any of the improvements ever will be made. The railroads are merely committed to the wisdom of the improvements, but no time is set for their accomplishment. The phrase, 'to be started within five years and completed within 15 years' has been stricken out. In its stead is the ambiguous, uncertain phrase 'to be started at once and continued to keep pace with the growth of the city.'

"The committee with authority to order justified improvements is shorn of all authority and money appropriation. It exists as an Advisory Committee. It may suggest, but its suggestions may be cast to the four winds. It came about in this way. When the first draft was completed, the Terminal Railroad was called into conference. Henry Miller, president of the Terminal, carried the ordinance away with him. When he brought it back, it was riddled. The roads stood committed only to build a passenger station in East St. Louis, to exchange some freight houses there, to build their approaches to the municipal bridge and to remove the Missouri Pacific tracks from Poplar street."

"Even the Poplar street improvement was in jeopardy for a time and was preserved only upon the insistence of a South St. Louis representative upon the committee."

"Missing were the provisions for the outer freight yards that were to dispel time-killing congestion. Missing were most of the other freight-speeding measures. Only a handful of the improvements so valuable to shippers remained."

The Terminal's Evasion.

"With the ordinance, President Miller returned this comment on the numerous improvements he had deleted:

"'In all there are more than 30 proposals, subject to changing conditions and for which the railroads must provide the means. As revenues vary greatly, their ability to finance improvements comes in cycles—about every five years. Hence it is quite out of the question to make a definite commitment on expenditures roughly estimated at $50,000,000.'

"The railroads are committed to an early start and ultimate consummation of the improvements, as far as practicable. This relates to commerce, mail, baggage, express, freight and passenger facilities."

"In carrying them out, the recognized intention is to classify them, giving preference to improvements that are indispensable over those merely desirable and to create facilities that are lacking in advance of refinements to those already existing to the best of their ability and as early as possible."

"The definite pledge for completion within any given time thus was evaded."

"The ordinance was struck even a more vital blow by Miller. It was in that provision specifying the terms upon which roads other than the Terminal should be permitted to use the bridge."

What "Exact Equality" Means.

"The ordinance had provided that other roads should pay on a 'user' basis. It read: 'No charge shall be made to any railroad other than its pro-rata share of the monthly cost of operation of the bridge.' In case of a disputed charge the city's Board of Public Service was to be the arbitrator."

"Miller deleted this entirely and inserted a provision that other roads could use the bridge on terms of 'exact equality' with the Terminal. Furthermore, he substituted the Interstate Commerce Commission as the arbitrator."

"The complaint has been made that the phrase 'exact equality' is vague and should be more specific. It has been interpreted in terms of the Terminal's past practice in its charges to other roads for use of the river crossings which it now controls. The railroads themselves now are quarreling among themselves about the meaning of the phrase."

"Other roads now use Terminal facilities but when they do they pay the full Terminal charge, as if the Terminal had performed the service, though the road may have hauled its cars with its own power."

"It is analogous to the situation of an automobile driver who ascends Eads bridge and pays the toll. He might find there a tractor of the Terminal which would offer to pull him across the bridge for an additional 50 cents."

"But," the motorist would protest, "I can go over under my own power." "As you like," the Terminal would reply, "but you pay the 50 cents just as if you used the tractor."

Throttling Competition.

"This method of charging for river crossings enables the Terminal to protect itself against any railroad carrying freight over the river at a charge less than its own. It has been asserted that perpetuation of this throttling of competition is the purpose of the phrase 'exact equality' for use of the municipal bridge and denial has not been forthcoming from the Terminal."

"The city's plan would permit a competitor of the Terminal to compete with it for business. The ordinance, before it was changed by Miller, provided that each road should pay for use of the bridge in proportion to the number of cars it transported. The operating expenses were to be computed, including a monthly interest charge upon $5,000,000, estimated valuation of the railroad deck, and an interest charge of the railroads' investment in approaches. The sum of these was to be pro-rated monthly among the roads on the basis of the number of cars they had sent across."

"It has been computed that the charge per car under these terms would be between $1 and $2 a car whereas the present Terminal charge for the river crossing is $10 to $12 a car. There is nothing to indicate that this charge would not be maintained, under the terms injected by Miller, on cars moving over the municipal bridge."

Subway Plan Tied Up.

"Miller struck ownership of the Eads Bridge by the city from the ordinance. He said it was impossible to deliver ownership. We showed him how, but he would not consent."

"The lease under which the Terminal uses the bridge and tunnel, provided that they shall 'forever be used' for the purposes for which it was built. The city does not want to run railroad trains over the Eads Bridge railroad deck. It might wish to use that deck for street cars. It does not want to use the tunnel. In fact, it must close the tunnel if subways are to be constructed downtown. The city must settle this now. We must know that we can close the tunnel when the time comes. If we wait until the time comes, we will be going to the Terminal empty-handed. The time to trade is now."

"The ordinance stands today virtually as Miller rewrote it. It provides little more than an exchange of bridges. Six years of discussion is lost. At its very inception, the committee was agreed upon exchange of the bridges, but recognized that this was only half the solution. Nothing in the ordinance gives definite solution to the other half—the multitude of improvements if the terminals are provided with speed, efficient movement of freight upon which the life of the city depends."

No Certainty City Could Make Full Use of Eads Bridge or Tunnel Connections

THERE is grave doubt of the ability of the railroads to fulfill their part of the agreement in the proposed ordinance for exchange of the uses of the Eads and municipal bridges, in the opinion of City Counselor Muench.

"It appears," Counselor Muench said, "that lease restrictions on the bridge and tunnel destroy the usefulness of the Eads bridge to the city, except the highway deck. The railroads do not own the bridge. They have a 450-year lease from the St. Louis Bridge Co. and the Tunnel railroad, one provision of which is that they shall operate and use the bridge and tunnel for the purposes for which they were created and using them for any other purpose is penalized by forfeiture."

"Thus, if the city should become possessed of the tunnel and should undertake to alter or close it, as will be necessary when subways under the downtown are built, the lease would be forfeited and the city would find itself disposed."

"Furthermore, if there were no such lease restrictions affecting the use of the bridge and tunnel, the city would not be assured that some tunnel stockholder would not bring successful court action to prevent any alteration of the tunnel from its present physical aspect."

"These are questions which must be weighed before the city trades away possession of the municipal bridge for doubtful possession of Eads bridge."

BRITISH TO PROTEST SOVIET FINANCIAL AID IN STRIKE

Chamberlain Replies to Questions in Commons That Incident Won't Be Passed Over.

LONDON, June 14.—Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain was questioned in the House of Commons today concerning the relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia.

He replied that a few days ago, just before leaving for Geneva, he had instructed the British charge d'affaires in Moscow to inform the Soviet government that the British Government could not pass over in silence the action of the Soviet commissariat of finance in giving special authorization for the transfer to Great Britain of funds destined to support the general strike.

The charge was instructed to point out that the general strike was an illegal, unconstitutional act, constituting a serious threat to established order, and that the special action of the Soviet commissariat in its favor did not conduce to the friendly settlement of the outstanding questions between the two countries which the Soviet government professed to desire.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The clash between the Tariff Commission was not always verbal only. It was shown in testimony today by Commissioner Glasie, appearing before the Senate Tariff Investigating Committee.

On one occasion, he said, Commissioner Culbertson, now minister to Rumania, referred to a motion picture shown by Glasie as a smoke screen, whereupon Glasie called Culbertson a liar and Culbertson hit Glasie in the eye with a tobacco pouch flung across the table.

Then Glasie removed his eye glasses and started around the table after Culbertson, but other members separated them.

The Tariff Commission was whipped and spurred into making the wheat investigation in 1923, Glasie testified.

The inquiry was made rapidly and without proper consideration under pressure from Commissioner Culbertson, he said.

LABOR UNION OPPOSES EXCHANGE OF BRIDGES

Central Trades Resolution Says Terminal Would Get New Span for Old One.

Central Trades and Labor Union, which previously has opposed any exchange of Eads and Municipal bridges between the city and the railroads, yesterday passed a resolution opposing the specific terms of an exchange of uses set down in the ordinance proposed by the Chamber of Commerce Terminals Committee.

The resolution set forth that the ordinance would prevent the building of Illinois side approaches to the bridge "as ordered by the people," that the Municipal Bridge would be delivered to the Terminal Railroad, continuing its restraint of the industrial expansion of St. Louis, and that the road would get a new bridge in exchange for a "decadent, crumbling bridge in the last stages of usefulness."

MUSSOLINI RECOVERS HEALTH Spends Week-Ends in Strenuous Amusement; Encores Violinist.

ROME, June 14.—An indication that Premier Mussolini has recovered the tremendous vitality for which he was famous before his illness of a year ago is seen by friends in his strenuous fashion of spending the last two Sundays.

On June 8 he drove his racing automobile more than 300 miles, while yesterday, after four hours of motor boating on the Tiber, he enjoyed a private violin concert at the Villa Torlonia. The artist was Bronislaw Gimpel, a Polish youth.

Mussolini, a violinist himself, was delighted with Gimpel's playing, and called for encores until after midnight.

ATHENS, Greece, June 14.—Brigands attacked a car carrying $15,000,000 drachmas ($200,000) belonging to the National Bank, on the road between Preveza and Yainia, European Turkey. Three guardsmen guarding the car with the chauffeur, a bank official and two servants were shot dead. The brigands decamped with the money.

FLAG DAY SERVICE AT MUNICIPAL THEATER

Scout Pageant Features Development of National Emblem.

Patriotic, religious and civic organizations joined yesterday afternoon in a public observance of Flag day at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park.

A feature of the program was a pageant by representatives of 15 Boy Scout troops, showing the evolution of the American flag from the time of John Cabot in 1497. Robert L. Morton, member of the Executive Board of the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts, explained the history of the various flags as they appeared. The flags were presented to Col. S. J. Lowe of the 138th Infantry for safe keeping, at the conclusion of the pledge to the flag which followed the pageant.

Colors of Boy Scout troops, military and patriotic organizations, were held yesterday. The Gen. C. D. Wolff Camp of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War conducted a flag raising yesterday afternoon at the Dewey Heights Volunteer Fire Department, Gray and Eskline avenues, St. Louis County.

An elaborate program by Masonic organizations will be held tonight at Scottish Rite Cathedral. Bands of 12 Grotto organizations, here for their annual convention, will play, and a choral club of 100 voices from Columbus O., will sing. George A. Treadwell of New Orleans, grand monarch of the Grotto, will be the principal speaker.

'RED MILL' DREW 43,000

Friday's Sale, $6115, Sets Record for Single Night at Municipal Opera.

Notwithstanding the loss of Saturday night's performance owing to rain, the second week of the current Municipal Opera season, closing last night, showed a gain of about 25 per cent in attendance at the six performances of "The Red Mill," as compared with the attendance of seven performances of "The Chocolate Soldier," which drew about 43,000 persons saw "The Red Mill" last week. The Friday night audience was the largest in the history of Municipal Opera, the ticket sales being $6115, a new record for a single performance.

Oscar Straus' light opera, "The Chocolate Soldier," opens tonight as the Municipal Theater Association's third 1926 production. Tickets for last Saturday night may be exchanged for tickets for any of this week's performances, excepting Wednesday night, when the house has been taken by Alhambra Grotto for the entertainment of delegates to the national convention of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, a Masonic organization.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

TO GO ABROAD

MISS MARIE WYGANT, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry S. Wygant of North Twenty-sixth street, Camp Hill, former residents of St. Louis, will become the bride of Eugene Philip Curran, son of Con P. Curran of Normandy, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony is being performed by the Rev. John Stanton at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg, Pa.

The bride will wear a white broad satin gown, worn by her great-grandmother at her wedding. The tight bodice has an old-fashioned low shoulder line with a full collar, and the skirt is fashioned in bouffant effect. Chantilly lace will cover her tulle veil. She will carry orchids, lilies of the valley and roses.

Her two sisters, Miss Christina Wygant and Miss Sophia Wygant, will serve as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Both are to wear organdie frocks, made similar to the bride's gown, the former in blue and the latter pink. Poke bonnets with long streamers will complete the costumes, and she will carry old-fashioned bouquets.

The bridegroom's brother, John Curran, will be best man, and Henry and Edward Wygant, brothers of the bride, ushers.

A wedding breakfast and reception will be held at the home of the bride, 40 guests, will follow the ceremony. Mr. Curran and his bride will have a two weeks' wedding trip and after July 1 will be at home in the Castlereagh Apartments, St. Louis.

Miss Wygant was introduced to society two seasons ago in St. Louis. She attended Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., and spent last summer in Europe. Mr. Curran attended St. Mary's College in Kansas City, Mo., and is a member of the University of St. Louis.

Tomorrow evening Col. and Mrs. Wygant will entertain at their home the members of the bride party and the out-of-town guests, among whom are: Mr. and Mrs. Sol W. Gross, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Con P. Curran Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Jack Tierney, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corley, Mrs. John Delany, John James, John McCarthy, Bernard Thole and Francis Gross, all of St. Louis. Mr. Curran will be unable to attend the wedding because of a trip to Budapest to visit his daughter, Mrs. William Gross, who is convalescing from a recent serious illness.

The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of 5058 Washington boulevard, will sail June 30 for Europe to spend the summer. He will meet his son, Ivan Lee Holt Jr., for a month, and later will join a party comprised of Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Hugh Murray French, Mrs. James B. Hill, Miss Emma Petring, Miss Susan Lewis and Miss Nell Ambrose of New York, who will be a few days ago. They will return home early in September.

Miss Genevieve Konetzky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Konetzky, of 7537 Stanford avenue, University City, departed last Sunday for a trip through the western States and Mexico. She will return home Oct. 1.

New Films

By NIE.

"AND SO," said the divorce court judge in a subtitle in "The Far Cry." "You left your husband before sundown of your wedding day." And that tips you off to the fact that Blanche Sweet is married but no wife. Just why this information was so carefully registered at the West End Lyric, Grand Central and Capitol is not apparent. Perhaps the director had an idea on his mind and then abandoned it as the picture dragged along. The scenes are laid in Paris as you can easily tell from the shot of the Eiffel Tower at the beginning and you are introduced to a lot of nice people—first families of France and leading Americans whose ancestral trees were planted during the bull market of 1920. There is also some excellent color photography but not enough to compensate for a stupid and disjointed story. "The Far Cry" is a pretty weak one.

Back Among the Cabbages.

"LOVEY MARY," down at Loew's doesn't add much to literature but it is a nice, pleasing little picture of the Mrs. Wiggs school and is entertaining for the sentimentally inclined. You can cry to your heart's content over this one and there are a lot of laughs as well. The picture is well made and the story, such as it is, is consistent. On the bill at Loew's is a short film of more than usual interest showing, in an entirely untechnical way, how the Associated Press handles a big news story, how it gets it to the newspapers and how, within a very few minutes the extras are out on the street. As a preliminary to the story of the start of the Associated Press nearly a hundred years ago, is described and the slow and cumbersome methods of gathering world news is shown. Then the present methods are illustrated with the eruption of Mount Vesuvius as the news event and you are shown the taking of the transmission of the story, the handling of the matter in the office of the New York Evening World and the rushing of the papers to the street. It is displayed in a manner that the layman can understand.

Now in Paris.

"A M SALLING TODAY. Am still pure, Oswald."—This cable from Oswald in Paris to his bride in the United States was absolutely on the level. We can vouch for Oswald because he spent his three weeks' Parisian visit in jail, peeling potatoes under the moral supervision of a gendarme. Despite the fact that the hero remains in jail, and that there are but two shots of the Eiffel tower, one cafe scene and no reveal scene, "Three Weeks in Paris" at the St. Louis manages to be Parisian, anyway. Motion picture Paris is never disappointing. There is in this picture the matter of a gentleman's cuff button that lodged in a lady's collar and while no really hot stuff pops off the grid-iron until Oswald leaves Paris, what happens on the steamer homeward-bound—oo la la! For all that this comedy manages to escape offensiveness. Matt Moore and Willard Louis do some first-rate fooling, with burlesques of a duel and kitchen police—that are quite funny. Pretty soon the movie is going to come right out and say that a hero can remain pure in Paris even if he isn't in jail all the time. Some day a movie hero

Dix in a Mix.

RICHARD DIX'S newest comedy, "Say It Again," at the Missouri is not really a comedy at all but rather a combination of the broadest burlesque and thrilling melodrama and while it is of course amazingly impossible it provides plenty of amusement. ## Is There a Santa Claus?

THE following occurrences in the latest Tom Mix movie, entitled "Hard Boiled," and shown at Kings and Rivoli this week interested the reviewer: Ted duces simultaneously fall off 10 galloping ranch ponies and no one is injured. A crook shoots a small boy in the shoulder with a heavy caliber revolver on a horse gallop, then leaps on a horse, gallops six miles for help, leaps on another horse, gallops five more miles and finishes the day's work by shooting an army musket from the injured shoulder. Four tough looking resort men put up at an exclusive resort and pass easily as members of the haut ton. A stage coach overturns on a railroad crossing, midway between the ties, and just at the moment an express train approaches the crossing. Mix gallops up to rescue a girl in the coach. Tom Mix's horse, Tony, enters a girl's bedroom and stages one of the most risque scenes between a girl and a horse ever screened. However, there is nothing risqué in the program that is much easier to believe. It is called "Early to Bed" and in it Matt Moore, taking the advice of a go-getter friend walks up to the boss and says: "Big boy, I'm ready for another hundred a month." The boss replied: "Little boy, you're fired." This scene is entirely possible.

will arise who can take his Paris or leave it alone. In the meantime, Oswald does very well. The vaudeville this week is about Paris, too, and at the climax an apache gets shot, and dies under pink, green, purple, in fact, assorted lights.

The recipe for your Bread

Flour, milk, shortening, sugar, yeast, salt— Here are the simple ingredients every good bread recipe calls for. How is the recipe for Certified Bread different? Here is an illustration. The recipe for Certified Bread does not call simply for "milk." It calls for milk with a certain proportion of butter fat in it—with just the right degree of richness to make the best bread. And every bit of milk which goes into Certified Bread must measure up to these requirements. So it is with every other ingredient used. Each is tested in a special Testing Kitchen before it goes to make a single loaf of Certified Bread. No wonder Certified is the only bread used in thousands of homes today!

SEVEN DEAD, 75 HURT IN GARY, IND., BLAST

Workmen Buried in Debris
When Gas Wrecks Steel
By-Products Plant.

By the Associated Press.
GARY, Ind., June 14.—Seven men
lost their lives, and 75 were injured
in an explosion in the coke oven
department of the by-products
plant of the Illinois Steel Co. here today. The two-story coke oven plant was virtually wrecked by the terrific blast.

Lloyd Richardson, foreman of the coke ovens, and six Negroes
were the victims.
About 100 men were employed at the plant. The force of the explosion hurled them against the walls, breaking arms and legs. Rescue was difficult because the building was shattered, burying the victims in the debris.

Two hours after the blast, rescuers still were searching the wreckage for victims.
The injured were taken to the steel company's hospital here, and to the city hospital. Many of these injured suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

It was about 9 a. m. when, with a roar that was heard two miles away, the blast hurled the roof of the plant high in the air and heaved out the walls in a shower of bricks.

The explosion occurred on what is known as the saturation floor of the by-products plant. Fire departments were summoned, but there was little in the debris that was inflammable and nearby buildings were not endangered.

The wrecked building was about half a block long, with a sheet metal roof.

OFFERS 10,000 BLACKSNAKES
TO CLEAR TEXAS OF RATTLESNAKES

Missourian Who Estimates There Are 1,000,000 in State Says Some Could Be Spared.

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 14.—
J. S. Gates of Sugar Creek, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City, who has heard of the seriousness of Texas rattlesnakes, has offered to send 10,000 of Missouri's blacksnares to do battle with the rattlers.

In a letter received by the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce,
Gates said there are fully 1,000,000
blacksnares in his State and that 10,000 of them could easily be spared, with a written guarantee that 10 years hence there wouldn't be a rattler left in Texas—except in automobiles.

Gates was high in his praise of the Missouri reptile, Missouri was infested with rattlers years ago,
he wrote, but when the blacksnares
got into action the rattlers disappeared. He added it would be no trouble to catch the blacksnares

and ship them there.

PART THREE.

TO SHARE $50,000,000 ESTATE

Heirs to Fortune of Inventor of Sheffield Silver Plate.
By the Associated Press.
WINDSOR, Ont., June 14.—It is asserted that the $50,000,000 estate
of James Dixon, inventor and manufacturer of the famous Sheffield silver plate, is to be distributed after having been in chancery in England for 62 years.

Two residents of this city and John McLinden of Wyandotte, Mich., are the only heirs whose identity is known here. It is declared, however, that lawyers have discovered eight other heirs and that it is likely there will be an equal division of the millions. It was back in 1805 when James Dixon, a silversmith of Sheffield, England, discovered the process of electroplating.

You buy butter,
eggs and milk
by grade...

Why not Ice Cream, too?

You insist upon "Extra Creamery" butter...
"Strictly Fresh" eggs... and "Certified" milk—
why not insist upon the "Extra Good" grade of Ice Cream?

Ice Cream, you know, is MADE by grade. Some ice creams, for example, are made with pure sweet cream... others with butter. Some with pure cane sugar... others with glucose. Some are flavored with true fruit flavors... others with extracts.

Yet in spite of this fact that Ice Cream has always been MADE by grade, it has never been SOLD by grade. Ever think of that?

Now, however, this city has an Ice Cream of the highest grade that money can buy. The name
"Carpenter's Hydrox Brand" is to Ice Cream what
"Extra Creamery" is to butter, what "Strictly Fresh" is to eggs and what "Certified" is to milk.

And you can insist, too, upon getting this "Extra Good" grade of Ice Cream just as you insist upon getting a particular high grade of butter, milk or eggs.

Insist upon getting Hydrox by going only to Hydrox Agents.

There's a Hydrox Agency near your home

CARDINAL, BISHOPS AND KNIGHTS IN LONG PROCESSION

Thousands of Persons Throng Streets and Roofs
of Skyscrapers to See
New York Procession.

SEVEN CARDINALS
VIEW SPECTACLE

Within St. Patrick's Cathedral Papal Envoy to Eucharistic Congress Is Welcomed to U. S.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 14.—Two thousand years of church pageantry
flowered in New York yesterday.
Gold and silver, gonfalon, plumbed knights of St. Gregory, surplised seminarians and cassocked priests, bishops in purple vestments and a Cardinal in red—all mingled in the mile-long procession that drew 200,000 persons to Fifth and Madison avenues.

Six hundred police mounted and afoot were required to clear the streets. Thirteen persons were prostrated by the heat. Only a fraction of the turnout—something over 5000 persons, gained entrance to St. Patrick's cathedral
after the procession.

There Cardinal Bonzano, confronted by seven cardinals of the Catholic church, rose from the pontifical throne and intoned the papal blessing.

So anxious were Catholics of New York to see the procession that preceded the short service in St.
Patrick's that they climbed the roofs of skyscrapers along the way,
stood upon the tops of limousines,
packed the sidewalks and overflowed upon the avenues.

Ceremony in Three Parts.
The ceremonies were in three parts—the long procession the Cathedral service, and a purely ecclesiastical procession.
The procession started at 2:30
p. m. with Col. John J. Phelan leading the military escort from the 165th regiment, armory, and Father Francis P. Duffy, the chaplain, in line with his green-banded hat.

There followed chaplains of the fire and police department, cadets
from Clauston Military Academy,
Our Lady of Lourdes church, St.
Francis Xavier's High School,
Knights of St. Benedict, Knights of Columbus with their color guard.

The color guard wore blue uniforms trimmed with gold and tri-corn hats trimmed with long plumes of gold and silver, the papal color.

After the color guard came Cardinal Bonzano, the papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress convening in Chicago next Sunday, accompanied by Mgrs. Respighi and Dominioni flanked by Knights of St. Gregory and by files of papal chamberlains.

Other church dignitaries in varicolored vestments followed in cars
behind the Cardinal.

Bystanders cheered and lifted their hats as Cardinal Bonzano drove slowly by, lifting his right hand and smiling first upon this side, then on the other.

Cardinal View March.
During the march seven other Cardinals of the church, in brilliant choir dress, sat in chairs set on the lawn outside the archepiscopal residence. Beside Cardinal
Hayes was Cardinal O'Donnell, Primate of Ireland, next Cardinal
Charost of France and Cardinal Casonova of Spain. Then Cardinal Dubois of France, Cardinal
Piffi of Austria, and Cardinal Czernoch of Hungary. They wore choir cassocks of flaming red, lace-
like rochetts over these, scarlet mezzettas over the shoulders of the rochetts. Red birettas were placed over their small crimson zucchetto.

The military band drew up in front of the archepiscopal residence, in full view of the Cardinals.
With the green bands around their hats they looked the part of the "Irish Brigade," as they were called. And suddenly, waiting for the rest of the procession to catch up, the bands struck up "The Wearin' of the Green." The drum major hit on another lively tune—
"O'Donnell A-B" the victory song
of the O'Donnells.

Ecclesiastically, the papal le-gate, Cardinal Bonzano, was the cynosure of the afternoon, but it was the primate of Ireland who caused the biggest flutter of hearts.
Men and women broke past police lines and ran across the avenue to kneel and kiss his ring.

The Ecclesiastical Procession.
After the procession the religious procession formed at Cardinal
Hayes' residence and moved to St.
Patrick's.
First went acolytes and crucifiers,
followed by Cathedral College students, seminarians from Dunwoodie, then the Christian Brothers in their long black cassocks, Franciscans in brown, Dominicans in

NEW HAY FEVER REMEDY FOUND BY ST. LOUIS DOCTOR

A St. Louis physician is now offering to the general public a remedy for Hay Fever which he has been successfully using in his private practice since 1919, and which he guarantees will give positive relief to the most severe cases of Hay Fever, or no charge is made for his treatment.

The principal of the Sherman
School of this city, says this remedy permanently cured him of his Hay Fever. Scores of other St.
Louis people praise it highly, many of them reporting that the sneezing
and other distressing symptoms disappear after one day's treatment.
The Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros.
and Walgreen drug stores are distributing this remedy, under the name of Hay-Rem-O, with an offer to refund the purchase price to anyone who does not get satisfactory results after using one-half of a
treatment.

Daily use in advance of the hayfever season will reduce severity of the attacks, and in some cases ward
it off entirely. The treatment is also very effective for Rosa Cold,
Summer Catarrh and Nasal Sinus Trouble.

black and white, Capuchins and Carmelites and other orders. The secular clergy followed the Monsignori, who were in bright purple, their black birettas marked with purple tassels. The Bishops were in darker purple, mantellettes over their white lace surplices, the archbishops came next in flowing robes of purple and on each side of them, long files of the Knights of St. Gregory.

Behind came altar boys, pages in yellow and scarlet, and black velvets; acolytes and crucifers. The seven Cardinals with their chaplains followed. Directly in front and beside the papal legate were six altar boys in crimson suits, bearing tall red lanterns.

Pages and members of the papal legate's suite brought up in the rear.

Monsignor Michael J. Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, met the procession at the great middle door. As the procession moved up the aisle the Cardinals stopped momentarily at the Sacred Heart altar and knelt in prayer for a minute or more before the Blessed Sacrament.

Papal Legate Ascends Throne. They moved on to the chancel. Cardinal Bonzano led the way, kneeling at a prie-dieu draped with crimson moire, placed in the center, and then, taking his seat on the pontifical throne at the left. By him stood Mgrs. Chidwick and Waring and Mr. Resplight, master of ceremonies.

Directly across the chancel from the throne on the right of the altar were seven antique chairs of crimson plush and gold-covered woodwork. In these the other Cardinals took their seats. Cardinal Hayes ascended the pulpit.

"This occasion is one of the most solemn and historic in the long and splendid history of this great cathedral. We welcome here for the first time a legate of our Holy Father to America. He has been here before, here in this cathedral, has graced us with his presence during his 10 long years of service to the church as apostolic delegate, but it is reserved for the Catholics of New York, even though they will not have the honor of entertaining the Eucharistic Congress, to welcome him with hearts filled with rejoicing and with love and devotion to the vicar of Christ and to him who comes as his personal representative.

"My Lord Cardinal legate, what have you witnessed since you came to our shores, since you came to this cathedral, is symbolic of the Catholic unity and faith and of the love and devotion that makes the Catholics of this diocese defend that faith even at the cost of their lives if necessary."

5000 Children Sing. Five thousand school children under Mgr. Joseph F. Smith, sang: But first let the song of our welcome ascend.

To greet thee, our Cardinal, our father and friend, Anointed of God, and our guide far above, We greet thee, we greet thee with gladness and love.

As flowers of the forest unfold in the sun, So our young hearts rejoice as in kindness you come, As they brighten to beauty beneath its warm ray, Let your smiles and applause give us courage today.

Then Martin Conboy, Knight of St. Gregory and president of the Catholic Club, took a position directly before the pontifical throne and made an address of welcome to Cardinal Bonzano.

Cardinal Bonzano's Address. Before pronouncing the papal benediction, Cardinal Bonzano made the following reply: "I am deeply touched by the very kind words of His Eminence, and the president of the Catholic Club, by the cordial welcome and by the royal reception accorded me in this great city and metropolis of the Western world.

"My former experience in your midst, and especially my pleasant visit with the distinguished Archbishop of New York, led me to anticipate just such a greeting. I recall now, in particular, the kindness of the beloved Cardinal Farley, whom I knew so well and whose death brought sorrow to me as it did to you and so many others. I remember the day I offered the holy sacrifice for his eternal repose—at this very altar beneath which he was laid to rest in the midst of the people for whom he had given the thought and labor of his life.

"With pleasure I recall the many occasions on which I met his worthy successor, whose career I had followed with keenest interest as he advanced from honor to honor in the church, and, still more as the field of his zealous activity grew wider and wider. And I need not tell you, for whom and with whom he has labored so zealously, that as Bishop, as Archbishop and as Cardinal, he has been, and now is, ever the same at heart—ever thoughtful for others, ever gracious to the poor and ever concerned for the progress of religion in this great archdiocese.

Religious Epoch in America.
"I congratulate you, therefore, on the fact that you have him as your spiritual leader and that you so willingly second his efforts in behalf of the Catholic cause. It is a privilege and joy to operate with Cardinal Hayes, just now.

especially in the great work of charity which he is directing. You must feel that you cannot do too much in accomplishing his large-hearted design. It will be realized, I am sure, in a manner becoming the Catholics of New York—in keeping with the splendid spirit which makes this city a model to all the cities of America and even to the rest of the world.

"The Holy Father has been pleased to send me as his representative to the Eucharistic Congress, an event which marks an epoch in the history of religion in America. Knowing as I do your earnest devotion to our Lord in the sacrament of His love, I am certain that you will have your share, an abundant share, in the blessings that will flow from this public solemnity in honor of the Eucharistic King. And I pray that as you pay Him continually the homage of love and thankfulness He may abide in your hearts, in your homes forever, in all your endeavors to further the welfare of the church in the city of New York.

me of a successful journey in the fulfillment of my mission. It will give genuine pleasure to the Holy Father. In the name of the prince of the church here present and in my own I thank you most sincerely and invoke upon you and yours the favor and the graces of our Lord, Jesus Christ, whose delights are to be with the children of men and in anticipation of the heavenly favors I am happy now to bestow upon you the Holy Father's special blessing."

Acid Stomach
PHILLIPS' Milk
of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA
For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

TRY A 25c BOTTLE
Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles, any drug store.

An amazing way to dry clothes in the New Easy Washer

MODEL M
This is the famous Easy Washer with one-piece metal wringer. With hundreds of thousands of these washers in use today, their tremendous popularity has created a permanent demand for them. We shall therefore continue to make this model, with the same fine workmanship and materials.

Two Tubs - the small tub dries while the large tub washes

Washes, rinses and dries all at the same time . . . Dries for line or immediate ironing without wringer . . . Handles all the water . . . No water to lift or carry; not a drop wasted . . . Makes its own suds in forty seconds . . . New water-circulating system returns all soapsuds to wash-tub . . . Returns rinse and blue waters from dryer to rinse and bluing tubs . . . When through washing, empties itself into drain or sink . . . Does a complete washing faster than any other washer . . . Washes more thoroughly and gently than human hands . . . Dries clothes without wrinkles . . . Saves ironing time . . . Safe guards buttons . . . Special gas heater keeps the water hot . . . The new Easy does all these things so simply and easily—touch a button, move a lever, and it's done.

STABILITY

where Your Savings for a Home are Safe

MANY homes in St. Louis have been built because of the Stability of the National Bank of Commerce. Savings for a home are not only under its time-tested protection—but under the additional security of United States Government supervision.

This hundred million dollar institution, this national bank that has never failed a saver in its whole history of sixty-nine years, has a satisfied customer for every home in St. Louis—an army of more than 100,000 people who believe that certainty is quite as important as speed.

For every dollar put under its protection, The National Bank of Commerce has more resources to assure safety than any other national bank west of the Mississippi River.

It is always better to be safe than sorry. Save for a home—an education—a trip abroad—or any other definite goal, at "Commerce," where sixty-nine years of Stability, unequalled resources and United States Government supervision assure that your thrift will not go unrewarded.

—STABILITY

The Federal Commerce Trust Company will gladly furnish any desired data on any bonds in which you may be interested. There is no charge for such statistical service. Phone or call.

Don't close the Stability Door after the horse has been stolen.

As the Flag, displayed, is the symbol of American patriotism, so is a Savings Account the peace-time proof of its reality. We are, therefore, combining sentiment with performance and offering with each new "Commerce" Savings Account with an initial deposit of $10 or more

FREE! AMERICAN FLAG

for Flag Day and 4th of July. The flag is made of finely sewed fabric, full 3 by 5 feet in size, complete with holder, rope and jointed pole; packed in neat, portable box.

STABILITY for

Your Estate

Your estate, managed by the "Commerce" Trust Department, is not subject to the whims of fate affecting individual administration—and the Trust Department is also subject to U. S. Government supervision, just the same as any other part of the bank.

That Safe Deposit Feeling -- STABILITY

If your safe deposit box contained nothing but your will and insurance policies, it would still be worth much more than its small annual cost, because wills and insurance policies cannot be effective if they are lost or stolen.

STABILITY --- even thousands of miles away

To be able to guarantee Stability on shipboard is a crucial test and the "Commerce" Foreign Department, as usual, measures up. Wherever you may roam, to any important or hidden place of the earth, if there's a bank on the premises there is a "Commerce" correspondent looking out for the interests of our customers as if they were their own.

STABILITY --- for Mid-continent Industries

In its pursuit of an ideal—complete service—"Commerce" occupies a place of outstanding distinction in its helpfulness to Industrial and Commercial customers. This spirit has impelled the progressiveness that has been reflected in the bank's steady growth, until "Grow with Commerce" has become something more than a mere slogan—it has developed into a faith.

Your Investments

The Federal Commerce Trust Company is distinctive in its investment service because it is owned by the stockholders of the National Bank of Commerce and has access to all the credit information of a great hundred million dollar bank. Knowledge is power and particularly when applied to purchase and sale of securities.

CHAPTER TWENTY.

At the spring where weeks before she had lain on the ground with her clothing in a heap beside her, Judith met Ellen. They sat down together beside the water-hole and listened to the insects in the air humming of rain. Judith placed her hand over Ellen's mouth when he started to speak.

"Don't!" she whispered. "You can hear the clouds move!"

They sat in silence and listened to the close, forbidding air above and around them. The air became gray under the trees, and from the clearing the cattle lowed uneasily.

Judith moved close to Ellen and studied his face. He kissed her almost fearfully on the lips and the base of the throat. It seemed that he had never known how beautiful she was.

"I will go with you after the hay," she told him.

True to her word, a week later Mrs. Sandbo came to visit the Garens. She came dressed in her finest, bringing with her a fruit cake. Surely such a token of neighborliness would offset any rebuff.

When Ellen met her at the door, Mrs. Sandbo stepped hastily inside. Amalia, who was working in the garden, did not come in at once although she had seen Mrs. Sandbo drive into the yard. She stood for a while with her eyes out toward the bluffs on the prairie, where Caleb had gone to look over some cattle.

Lind was sewing in the sitting room when Mrs. Sandbo stepped in. It was the teacher who placed a chair for her. Ellen stood back uncertainly.

"Well—Mrs. Sandbo began, settling herself. She looked critically about the room before she went on. "Well—it's getting warm, Miss Archer. My! Ellen, I would not know you again! How thin you are. What do you do for yourself now? Something the matter?"

Ellen smiled at her. "No—nothing, I feel good," she said. "You are a real big girl, now, though. Perhaps you will be getting married of these days, ya? And Miss Archer, you are yourself looking for a husband now, I hear?"

"Oh," Mrs. Sandbo supplemented elaborately, "maybe it's a mistake. But I was thinking it wasn't for nothing that Fust Aronson went over to Thorvaldson. Of course, they say so much at the Siding."

"What do you mean, Mrs. Sandbo?" Lind asked uneasily.

"Oh—noting—noting—to say again. It was only at the Siding the story went that Fust Aronson knocked Thorvaldson crazy on his own farm for saying about the teacher and this hired man on Klovacs place. How on earth—did the very thing carry bits here? It had been, perhaps, unwise to go there at all."

Amelia came in at that moment and greeted Mrs. Sandbo quietly. Ellen, who had heard the latter's story, gave Lind a sidelong glance and went out. She had her own opinion of such downright and flagrant indiscretion.

"And how is Mr. Gare, back from the city?" Mrs. Sandbo asked mildly. Amalia told her he was well.

"He brings many nice things for the girls, now, maybe?"

"We can't afford anything that isn't useful, Mrs. Sandbo. I want to thank you for that fruit cake. I haven't had time to make a cake for quite a while. The garden keeps me busy."

"Yes—sighed Mrs. Sandbo. "And it takes money, too, to bake and cook fancy."

"Ellen," Amalia called toward the kitchen. "Make some tea for Mrs. Sandbo, please."

"Mrs. Thorvaldson, she is the unlucky one," Mrs. Sandbo said profoundly, folding her hands in her lap.

"What's the matter with her?" Amalia asked, seeing that her visitor wished to be prompted.

"She had a young son last week, and it was born dead—a boy, too. It was too soon for me to get over," she said regretfully. "Thorvaldson was so mad he almost beat nine girls already, and this the first boy. But I think it was a mercy it died."

Ellen brought Mrs. Sandbo tea, and some of her own cake.

Caleb came in after a while and glanced at Mrs. Sandbo. He did not speak to any one in the room, but rummaged around in a drawer for a letter which he took to the table.

"Fust Aronson has sold you his timber, I hear, Mr. Gare? It was more than he would sell me, and I offered him a good price for it, too."

Caleb scarcely glanced up. "Yes," he said absently, peering at the paper before him.

"That was a terrible thing that happened to the Aronson boys, four five years ago. Fust isn't the same since."

"It was sad," Amalia remarked. "Nobody seems to know much of it," she went on. "Funny thing nobody was around to pick them up, or take them in for the night. It wasn't so far from people where they from."

"Of course, the storm would keep people from going out, Mrs. Sandbo," Amalia said hurriedly.

"Yes, and the epidemic was around, too."

"I'm afraid I'll have to go to the garden, again, Mrs. Sandbo," Amalia told her, glancing at Caleb. "I'm picking beans for supper and it's after 4 now."

"Good land, I stop so long already! Well—good-by, Miss Archer. And don't think nothing of that Thorvaldson. He's a mean von. Good-by, Mr. Gare. Good luck vit' the hay." She rustled out, her skirts making almost the rattling sound of paper. Amalia followed her gratefully.

After she had gone, Caleb coughed softly and replaced the letter in the drawer of the secretary. He had actually not looked at a word of it. He closed the drawer and turned the key in the lock of it, placing the key in his vest pocket where he kept his large silver watch. The drawer of the secretary reserved for Caleb's correspondence and papers was never touched by the rest of the family.

Amelia, in the garden, worried about what he would say when she returned to the house. She knew that he had come in only to torment her with his knowledge that Mrs. Sandbo was there.

Lind hurried to her room and wondered just how far the news had gone that she had been seen with Mark Jordan. No one could have known that she had eaten with him at the Klovacs', so that any report of this kind must be nothing but malicious conjecture. But she must give them nothing to talk about while she was teaching at Oeland. It was justified in her mind that she held of it her name would be banded about mercilessly.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

"If I see her here again, I'll put her out of the place," Caleb added, after giving Amalia a dressing down for entertaining Mrs. Sandbo. "We'll have no mix-in with that lot. The Teacher's settin' her cap for Mark Jordan, eh? The Siding knows about it. She'll want to find out the truth about that handsome young man, eh?"

He checked under his breath and went out to the cattle yard. Amalia stood still and thought. The Teacher was so fine, so generous—it would not matter to her. But she had heard that Lind took to the matter a great deal to Mark Jordan. A sudden impulse came to her. Caleb was well out of hearing, and Ellen had gone to bring in water.

She called upstairs to the Teacher. Lind came and looked down at her.

"I'm going to bake two chickens—would you like to take one over to that young man at the Klovacs?" Amalia asked. "Keep it a secret, of course."

Lind smiled at her, hiding her surprise. "What do the Icelanders say if they see me going there?"

"Well—do as you like. They will talk anyway, here."

It followed that Lind took the chicken, full of savory dressing, to the Klovacs homestead. On the way she wondered at Amalia's sudden bold generosity, and wondered also what the woman's real self was.

Mark Jordan was repairing a binder when Lind rode up to him. His hair hung in damp little curls to his forehead, his bare arms were sunburnt and the muscles stood out on them. She laughed aloud with delight as she looked at him. He came and put his arms around her where she sat in the saddle.

"Do you know, I think you're an awfully nice girl, you're a thing wrong with you, and it's not necessary for you to be here at all," she told him.

"Well—it wasn't, but it is now," she smiled at her. "At least until the end of October."

He helped her down from the saddle and took the parcel she gave him.

"There's a scandal about us," she said. "The prairie has seen me riding with you."

"Well—then we'll have to be married right away. And Oeland will lose a first class school teacher," he declared.

"No—just for spite we'll wait," she laughed. "But that's delicious chicken. Mr. Gare is a dear. I could kill the old man ten times a day. There must be something terrific keeping her there."

Mark caught her about the shoulders and kissed her repeatedly, taking off her hat so that he could bury his face in her hair. "You are too lovely to be alive," he whispered. "I think sometimes that I've just dreamt you."

She looked at his face, that were becoming tough in the palms with callouses. "Wonderful, isn't it?" she said, examining the callouses. "The doctor won't know his trembling patient."

They walked together to the house with a slow, thoughtful other, since from that point no one on the road could see them. When they were seated at the table for supper, Mark told her that he had a letter from Anton Klovacs and that he was returning home in a few weeks. The letter had been dispirited, and Mark feared that the great doctor had not given him as much hope. Anton had been spending the summer in a sanitarium, but his money was dwindling, and additional improvements would have to be made on the homestead.

"I'll stay here until the winter work begins, Lind, to help the poor devil out. So that means that we shall be leaving together."

Lind looked at him thoughtfully. It would be at the time of the wild goose flight. Suddenly she clasped her hands about his own and held them to her breast. "Dearest dear—I love you," she said. Mark drew her into his arms and they sat for a long time saying nothing.

She left early, after they had arranged to meet again the following day at Yellow Post.

Caleb made daily tours of the fields now and took careful note of the weather. Every evening for a week he went out with his lantern while the others were milking, coming back with it unlit after dark. He spoke to no one except to give directions about the work on the farm, and at mealtime he was absolutely silent. He was absorbed with the process of growth on the land he owned, lending to it his own spirit like physical nourishment.

While he was rapidly considering the tender field of flax—now in blue flower—Amelia did not exist to him. There was a transcendent power in this blue field of flax, that lifted a man above the petty artifices of birth, life, and death. It was more exacting, even, than an invisible God. It demanded not only the good in him, but the evil, and the indifference.

Caleb would stand for long moments outside the fence beside the flax. Then he would turn quickly to see that no one was looking. He would creep between the wires and run his hand across the flowering, gentle tops of the growth. A stealthy caress—more intimate than any he had ever given to woman.

The same hay and the rye grass were coming up as if there were hands at their roots pushing them. The fodder grass, too, were heavy headed, straight and yellowing. And the cattle and horses in pastures were growing sleek and round.

Martin, dutifully going about his daily chores, knew that the signs were good.

"Thinkin' of buildin' in the spring?" he asked Caleb. The New House stood large and beautiful in the mind of the man.

"Buildin'?" Buildin' what? Caleb asked absently. He was peering westward, where he thought he saw some of his cattle in Thorvaldson's summer fallow.

"A house?" Heb, heh! Well, well, Martin, the women must be gettin' you. What on earth do you want to build a house for, when we have one? Heh, heh!" He went off chuckling to himself at Martin's vagaries.

Martin split a log with a tremendous swing of his ax. Well, he had dreamt a little vainly, then. That was all. But Caleb couldn't live forever.

Caleb watched the market and decided it was time to sell a number of head of cattle. The roads to Nykerk Siding were dry and hard, it would be easy to herd them. The cattle and horses were summoned before Caleb in the sitting room and told to prepare to leave on the morrow. Then Martin went out with Caleb and selected 15 steers and cows from the herd. Among them were the two he had dreamt a little vainly, then. They were her own in place of the one that had been sold in the spring.

"These are Judith's steers," Martin said this time.

"Eh? Judith's—oh, yes, yes," Caleb agreed. "She'll get the money for 'em." He prided himself upon his fairness.

"But she doesn't want to sell until the fall."

"Nonsense—nonsense. Beef is going down."

Judith, who was at Yellow Post with Lind, did not see the steers turned into the pen. The next morning Ellen and Martin left before daybreak, while Judith was helping Amalia indoors with the morning work. So she did not see the herd of cattle motting the early gray air with their swinging flanks of red and white and black and white. It was not until Ellen and Martin had gone that it occurred to her that she should have looked for her steers.

THERE IS THE SWEETIE GARTER—

At Yellow Post the day before, Judith had disposed of the wool she had been hiding under the beam of the loft. She had scorned to ask Johanneson not to mention the sale of the wool to Caleb. He had paid her for it and she had sent the money at once to the city for material for a dress that Lind had promised to make for her.

Judith soon discovered that her steers were gone. She vowed to demand payment for the sale of the wool to Caleb. He had paid her for it and she had sent the money at once to the city for material for a dress that Lind had promised to make for her.

"I don't want you to go away, Judie, until you are old enough to take care of yourself," Amalia said in a softer voice. "You have never been off this farm, really, and you would only be miserable."

Judith narrowed her eyes at her. Then her face flamed.

"You're lying! That's not the reason at all. You're afraid—afraid to let me go because of what he'll do to you! You'd keep us all here to protect yourself, because you're scared green of him! You're a coward!" Her voice rose to a bitter pitch, the tears trembled in her eyes. Amalia recoiled as though she feared she would strike her. Then Judith suddenly plunged out of the door, caught her hat, and ran into the corral, and in another moment was racing the wind down the wood road.

Judith beat the horse furiously, goaded him with her heels. She raged at him, because he was not in a mood with her. Then, as if he wanted no more of her on his bare back, he curved and danced like an overbalanced seesaw, kicking his hoofs in the air behind him. Judith laughed and cried. The horse proceeded into a terrific gallop, turning finally off the road in to a clearing beyond which he saw a fence. The clearing was full of low stumps, and the animal's legs buckled under him, throwing Judith over his head. She fell on her side, a sharp splinter of a stump tearing open the flesh of her arm. ## THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

The Singing Voice.

LIFE'S ways levellest are hedged about with much of trouble, much of grief; for the spring, that woe the flowers out, is all too brief. Too often hope is but a gleam of light that dawns to fade away; we rarely find, except in dream, a perfect day. And yet, in spite of griefs that blow against the spirit's lifting wings, in some high hours we strangely know a voice that sings. We know a lyric loveliness transmuting all the dross of day, its dreary ranks of cares that press upon our way. In spite of all the weighty throng of griefs and frets and vexing pain, this sunny miracle of song returns again. And ever in the eager breast new hope awakes, new courage springs; though wings may droop and long for rest, the voice still sings.

Sliced Tomato Salad.

After paring as many tomatoes as are needed, slice in medium slices and chill. Make a filling of two onions of garlic minced with one onion, a teaspoonful of celery leaves, three leaves of fresh mint, and moisten with mayonnaise. Place two slices of tomato, sandwich fashion, on the crisp lettuce with the mince filling, and mask with mayonnaise dusted with paprika. Garnish with sprays of fresh watercress. One sandwich is a portion.

Winner of G. O. P. Senate Nomination in Pennsylvania Recalls Going on Another $50,000 Note.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Testimony given today before the Reed campaign fund investigating committee of the Senate brought to light another generous "angel" of the recent Republican primary in Pennsylvania, the total known cost of which now stands in round figures at $2,000,000. The morning session of the committee was marked by a continuation of the cross-examination of Representative William S. Vare, begun last night, and by a savage grilling of Thomas F. Watson, former city treasurer of Philadelphia and the treasurer of the winning Vare campaign for the senatorial nomination.

Albert M. Greenfield, a Philadelphia real estate man and bank officer, was the angel of the Vare campaign to the extent of at least $125,000.

Previous testimony had put him down for a contribution of $10,000. Today it was shown that he made two further donations in cash, one for $85,000 and another for $30,000. Both these sums were paid casually in a safe in Watson's office.

Reed, knowing about $25,000.

Much of the session was taken up with a vain effort to get Watson to tell the source of a mysterious $25,000 which he said had accumulated in his safe.

"I went after the witness in my old-fashioned fashion. Again and again he demanded to know just how the $25,000 had got there. The witness each time replied that he did not know.

"You know where it came from," accused Reed, wrathfully. "No, I don't know."

"Did anybody shove it under your door?" "No, sir."

"And so you can't tell where you got that $25,000?" "No, sir."

The examination was in that tenor for half an hour. Finally Reed got up and left the room, remarking in a tone of disgust that any other committee member who cared to go on with "this gentleman" might do so.

He was gone for about five minutes, during which time Senator McNary carried on the probing without revealing anything new.

"You had money in the bank, where it was and took it to your office," he asked.

"Yes, I accumulated the $25,000 because I did not want to send a check as I did not want it to appear I had contributed $25,000 to the campaign," Watson finally said.

At that the chairman called the committee to a corner of the room, where it was decided to excuse Watson and decide later whether to call for his books and accounts at the bank.

Vare, Worried, Takes Stand.

Vare had a worried look as he faced Reed across the committee table. The first questions had to do with conferences in Washington before he announced himself a candidate for the Senate against Senator George W. Pepper. Vare testified that at one of these meetings, into which he was called by telephone, he discussed the situation with W. L. Mellon, nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury, W. H. Baker, at that time the State Republican chairman, and Max L. Leanderson, then organization boss of the western part of the State.

Vare said that they were "hopeful" he would not be a candidate against Pepper. On the next day he again saw W. L. Mellon, who again gave him to understand that he wanted the field left clear for Pepper.

Vare said that he told the conference that he intended to run. In fact, he said, he had his platform in his pocket at the time, though he did not read it to them.

Answering a question, he said that he had never "talked politics" with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Vare said there were no serious
